GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Australia's central bank sees "significant uncertainties" on the economic outlook as the country's once high-flying property market nosedives, a major reason rate cuts might be back on the table.</li><li>• Bank of Japan Governor Haruhiko Kuroda said on Tuesday the central bank was ready to ramp up stimulus if sharp yen rises hurt the economy and derail the path towards achieving its 2 percent inflation target.</li><li>• Germany's economic outlook remains weak despite some improvement in investor morale in February, the ZEW institute said on Tuesday, pointing to sluggish demand from abroad and weak industrial production.</li><li>• British workers' pay growth maintained its fastest pace in a decade in late 2018 and job creation stayed strong, data showed, suggesting the labour market was buoyant ahead of Brexit as the broader economy slowed.</li><li>• A quarterly leading indicator of world merchandise trade slumped to its lowest reading in nine years on Tuesday, which should put policymakers on guard for a sharper slowdown if trade tensions continue, the World Trade Organization said on Tuesday.</li><li>• The U.S. Federal Reserve may need to raise interest rates in 2019 but it could still end its efforts to trim its massive bond portfolio before the end of the year, Cleveland Federal Reserve President Loretta Mester said on Tuesday.</li><li>• U.S. President Donald Trump said on Tuesday that trade talks with China were going well and suggested he was open to pushing off the deadline to complete negotiations, saying March 1 was not a "magical" date.</li></ul>
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Gold prices rose to a 10-month high on Tuesday as concerns over a global economic slowdown spurred a safe-haven bid and were also supported by a weaker U.S. dollar, which fell on optimism for a breakthrough in U.S.-China trade talks.</li><li>• Traders kept a close eye on the new round of talks between the United States and China to resolve their trade spat. Separately, the World Trade Organization warned that a slump of its leading indicator of world trade in goods to its lowest reading in nine years could foreshadow a broader economic downturn, as it highlighted the need to reduce trade tensions.</li></ul>
FOREX	The dollar slipped against a basket of other currencies on Tuesday as traders scaled back their safe-haven greenback holdings on optimism that a fresh round of talks between China and the United States would help resolve their trade conflict. The dollar index hit a near-two-month peak on Friday after last week's negotiations in Beijing failed to result in a deal, although officials from both sides said the talks had produced progress on contentious issues. Bloomberg TV reported on Monday that the White House is pushing for a pledge from China that it will not devalue its currency as a part of a trade deal. The dollar index, which tracks the greenback against six other major currencies, was down 0.42 percent at 96.5. On Friday, it hit 97.368, the highest since Dec. 17. The yuan hit a two-week peak versus the greenback at 6.7425 in offshore trading. U.S. financial markets were closed on Monday for the Presidents Day holiday. Among other major currencies, the Swedish crown tumbled after weak inflation data spurred sales of the currency and a paring of bets that interest rates would rise this year. Last week, the crown rose after Sweden's central bank said it would stick to its plan to raise rates in the second half of 2019. The currency plunged more than 1 percent to a two-year low against the dollar at 9.4180, after a report showed inflation slowed in January. Against the euro, it was headed for its biggest daily decline in more than 15 months. It touched 10.621, its weakest since September. The euro appreciated against the dollar on trade optimism. It reversed earlier losses after data showed Italian industrial orders dropped 5.3 percent in December from a year earlier.

	Euro zone bond yields, notably those of German bunds, fell amid the cloudy European economic outlook, weighing on the euro. When European Central Bank policymakers meet on March 7, they are expected to lower growth and inflation projections. The euro was up 0.25 percent at $1.13410, holding above a three-month low of $1.1234 set last week. The single currency, however, fell against the British pound as data showed domestic workers' salaries grew at the fastest pace in a decade in late 2018. The euro was 0.83 percent lower at 86.80 pence, while the pound was up 1.13 percent at $1.307. Sterling's gains were limited ahead of British Prime Minister Theresa May's meeting with the EU to find a way to get their Brexit deal through the UK Parliament.
GOLD	Palladium scaled a record peak to within striking distance of the $1,500 level on Tuesday fuelled by a sharp supply deficit, while gold climbed 1 percent to hit a 10-month high on a weaker dollar and global growth jitters. Spot palladium was 1.9 percent higher at $1,484 per ounce by 2:12 p.m. EST (1912 GMT), having earlier soared to an all-time high of $1,491. A sustained deficit in supply was likely to widen this year as stricter emissions standards increase demand for catalytic converters, Britain-based autocatalyst manufacturer Johnson Matthey said last week. A new round of trade talks between Washington and Beijing was scheduled for Tuesday. While both platinum and palladium are primarily used by automakers in catalytic converters, platinum is more heavily used in diesel vehicles, which have fallen out of favour since Volkswagen's emissions-rigging scandal broke in 2015. Unlike platinum, palladium has benefited from the switch away from diesel engines and expectations for growth in hybrid electric vehicles, which tend to be partly gasoline-powered. This has helped cushion the metal from falling car sales globally. However, analysts said palladium has risen too fast too soon and was bound for a correction. Meanwhile, the dollar backed away from a two-month high hit last week on increasing optimism for a breakthrough in the trade talks, bolstering appeal for gold. Spot gold gained 1 percent to $1,339.50 per ounce, having earlier touched its highest since April 20 at $1,341.78. U.S. gold futures settled up 1.7 percent at $1,344.8. Dovish signals from Japan's central bank and the ECB compounded worries over a global slowdown, and followed weak data from the United States and China. Also, investors will scan the minutes of the U.S. Federal Reserve's last policy meeting on Wednesday for more guidance on interest rate increases this year. Higher rates tend to weigh on non-yielding gold. Among other precious metals, platinum gained 1.8 percent to $816 per ounce, while silver rose 1.2 percent to $15.99.
OIL	Oil prices were mixed on Tuesday as concerns about global crude oil demand and uncertainty over the latest round of U.S.-China trade talks countered investor optimism around tightening supplies. Brent crude slipped 5 cents to settle at $66.45 a barrel, hovering below its 2019 high of $66.83 reached on Monday. U.S. crude was up 50 cents to $56.09 a barrel, its highest since November 2018. A fresh round of talks aimed at resolving the trade dispute between the United States and China began on Tuesday in Washington, with higher-level discussions planned for later in the week. Traders said they were cautious about taking large new positions before the outcome of the talks. In a red flag about the economic outlook, Europe's biggest bank HSBC warned it may delay some investments this year as it missed 2018 profit forecasts due to slowing growth in China and Britain. The Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) last week lowered its forecast for growth in world oil demand in 2019 to 1.24 million barrels per day. Some analysts believe it could be weaker.

To stop a build-up of inventories that could weigh on prices, OPEC+, which includes members of the producer group and allies like Russia, began a new supply cut of 1.2 million bpd on Jan. 1. The cuts have helped crude rise more than 20 percent.

Russian President Vladimir Putin and King Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud of Saudi Arabia, OPEC's de facto leader, said they supported continued coordination on the global energy markets, the Kremlin said on Tuesday.

Investors said the statement eased doubts that Russia would stick to the pact.

U.S. sanctions against exporters Iran and Venezuela have also supported oil prices. Venezuela is a major crude supplier to U.S. refineries. Iran's exports, while down steeply since sanctions began in November, have risen in early 2019, according to tanker data and sources.
