

Daily Outlook

GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	Wall Street's three major indexes ended higher on Monday but well below the session's highs after President Donald Trump said he would delay a planned hike in tariffs on Chinese imports. Postponement of the tariff deadline was seen as the clearest sign yet the two countries were closing in on an agreement to end their prolonged trade spat, which has slowed global growth and disrupted markets. But gains were capped after weeks of advances for the S&amp;P 500, the Dow Jones Industrial Average and the Nasdaq, partly due to trade optimism and dovish signals from the Federal Reserve. The S&amp;P 500 index ended 4.9 percent below its late September record closing high after narrowing the gap to 4.3 percent earlier in the session. Investors were also looking ahead to an appearance by Fed Chairman Jerome Powell before a U.S. Senate committee on Tuesday. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 60.14 points, or 0.23 percent, to 26,091.95, the S&amp;P 500 gained 3.44 points, or 0.12 percent, to 2,796.11 and the Nasdaq Composite added 26.92 points, or 0.36 percent, to 7,554.46. Investors were also wary of weakening estimates for current quarter earnings, with Wall Street on Monday expecting a 0.9 percent decline in S&amp;P first-quarter earnings per share compared with expectations for 5.3 percent growth on Jan. 1, according to IBES data from Refinitiv.
Nikkei	Japan's Nikkei rallied to a 10-week high on Monday after U.S. President Donald Trump confirmed he would delay a planned tariff increase on Chinese imports following "productive" trade talks over the weekend. The Nikkei share average rose 0.48 percent to 21,528.23, closing at the highest level since Dec. 13. Trump had planned to raise tariffs to 25 percent from 10 percent on $200 billion worth of Chinese imports if a deal between the world's two largest economies was not reached by March 1. He said progress had been made on a host of divisive areas including intellectual property protection, technology transfers, agriculture, services and currency. All the same, Ibayashi said further gains will be difficult to achieve once the initial excitement fades, noting the Nikkei is already trading above the psychological resistance level of 21,500. Companies with high exposure to the Chinese market attracted strong demand on Monday, with Keyence Corp surging 4.3 percent, Yaskawa Electric adding 2.7 percent and Komatsu Ltd 0.9 percent higher.
Kospi	South Korea's KOSPI stock index was barely moved on Monday, shrugging off U.S. President Donald Trump's remarks that he would delay an increase in tariffs on Chinese goods. The Korean won rose against dollar while the benchmark bond yield was steady. The Seoul stock market's main index added 2.06 points or 0.09 percent to 2,232.56 points. U.S. President Donald Trump said on Sunday he would delay an increase in tariffs on Chinese goods that had been scheduled for Friday, which lifted Chinese stock indexes, more than 5 percent each. Compared to the sharp gain of Chinese stocks, KOSPI's upside resilience was limited, said Lee Kyoungh-min, analyst at Daishin Securities, adding the deadline issue has been already reflected in local markets since January. Foreigners were net sellers of 128.8 billion won worth of shares on the main board. The won was quoted at 1,121.0 per dollar on the onshore settlement platform, 0.37 percent higher than its previous close at 1,125.2.
Hang Seng	Chinese stocks posted their biggest single-day gains in more than three years on Monday after U.S. President Donald Trump said he would delay an increase in tariffs on Chinese goods thanks to "productive" trade talks. Trump said that he and Chinese President Xi Jinping would meet to seal a deal if progress continued. China's Shanghai Composite index surged 5.6 percent to end the day at 2,961.28 points, its highest close since June 15, 2018 and the strongest daily percentage gain since July 9, 2015. The blue-chip CSI300 index also posted its biggest one-day rise since July 9, 2015, ending 5.9 percent higher at 3,729.48 points, the highest closing level since June 15. After falling more than 11 percent in the fourth quarter of 2018 due to concerns about slowing domestic growth and the trade war, the Shanghai Composite index has staged a rebound in 2019. As of Monday's close, it is up 18.7 percent so far this year. The CSI300 has gained 23.9 percent in the year to date. News last week that China and the United States were achieving progress in high-level trade talks had pushed the CSI300 to its best week in more than three years as investors bet that the two countries would reach a deal before the original March 1 deadline.
