GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	Wall Street's main indexes fell for a third session on Wednesday, with the S&P 500 posting its biggest one-day decline in a month, as healthcare and energy shares slumped and investors sought reasons to buy after the market's strong rally to start the year. With corporate earnings season ending, investors are looking for next catalysts to drive the market, including a potential trade agreement between the United States and China and economic data, including Friday's employment report. Optimism over a trade deal and over the Federal Reserve becoming less aggressive on raising interest rates have helped fuel a 10.6 percent rise for the S&P 500 this year, although the rally has stalled in recent days. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 133.17 points, or 0.52 percent, to 25,673.46, the S&P 500 lost 18.2 points, or 0.65 percent, to 2,771.45 and the Nasdaq Composite dropped 70.44 points, or 0.93 percent, to 7,505.92. The small-cap Russell 2000 dropped 2.0 percent, its biggest one-day percentage decline of the year. The closely followed Dow Jones Transport Average fell 0.5 percent, its ninth consecutive session of declines, which is its longest losing streak since February 2009. Investors say the 2,800 level on the S&P 500 has provided technical resistance to the benchmark index moving higher, although the index has breached its 200-day moving average, another key level. The S&P 500 healthcare sector lost 1.5 percent, with Pfizer Inc down 2.4 percent and Amgen off 3.0 percent.
Nikkei	Japan's Nikkei retreated further from three-month highs on Wednesday after a weak tone in U.S. shares, while retail investors pounced on reports that North Korea had restored part of a missile launch site to buy small defence-related firms. The Nikkei share average shed 0.6 percent to 21,596.81, with support seen at its 25-day moving average around 21,177. The Nikkei had traded at a three-month high earlier this week, but analysts said investors were now taking profit in the absence of any fresh catalysts to buy. Concerns over U.S.-China trade issues continued to hang over the market after U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said President Donald Trump would reject a trade deal that was not perfect, but the United States would still keep working on an agreement. "Stocks have recovered on a weak yen and a surge in U.S. stocks, but the market may take a pause for now." The broader Topix declined 0.25 percent to 1,615.25. Declining issues outnumbered advancing ones 1,291 to 737. Kura Corp tumbled 9.3 percent after the sushi restaurant chain reported a 29 percent drop in its November-January net profit, hit by mounting costs related to opening overseas outlets. Conversely, defence stocks were in the spotlight with retail investors pushing them higher after South Korea's Yonhap News Agency and two U.S. think tanks reported that North Korea had restored part of a missile launch site it had previously started dismantling.
Kospi	South Korean shares slipped on Wednesday as renewed tensions between North Korea and the United States dampened market sentiment, while investors awaited fresh clues on the progress of U.S.-China trade talks. The won hit a near three-week low, while benchmark bond yields also declined. North Korea has restored part of a missile launch site it began to dismantle after pledging to do so in a first summit with U.S. President Donald Trump last year, South Korea's Yonhap News Agency and two U.S. think tanks reported on Tuesday. Trump's national security adviser, John Bolton, said the United States would look at ramping up sanctions on North Korea if Pyongyang did not scrap its nuclear weapons programme. The benchmark KOSPI index closed down 3.63 points, or 0.17 percent, to 2,175.60 points, extending its losses into a fourth session. Foreigners were net sellers of 9.7 billion won worth of shares on the main board. The won was quoted at 1,128.8 per dollar on the onshore settlement platform, 0.29 percent lower than its previous close at 1,125.5. The currency fell for a fifth straight session, its longest losing streak since October, 2018.
Hang Seng	● Hong Kong shares rose on Wednesday bolstered by optimism Beijing will pursue more stimulus measures this year to prop up a cooling economy, while investors watched for developments in the Sino-U.S. trade talks. The Hang Seng index rose 0.3 percent to 29,037.60, while the China Enterprises Index gained 0.1 percent to 11,592.03 points.

● China stocks climbed on Wednesday to nine-month closing highs, bolstered by hopes Beijing would pursue more stimulus this year to underpin the cooling economy, even as investors watched for developments in Sino-U.S. trade talks.

The blue-chip CSI300 index rose 0.8 percent to 3,848.09, its highest close since May 23, 2018, while the Shanghai Composite Index closed up 1.6 percent at 3,102.10 points, its highest close since June 7, 2018.
