GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Bank of England is more likely to cut interest rates than raise them in the event of a no-deal Brexit, rate-setter Silvana Tenreyro said, the latest BoE official to back the idea of coming to the economy's rescue if it suffers a Brexit shock. • The European Central Bank changed tack on its tightening plan on Thursday, pushing out the timing of its first post-crisis rate hike until 2020 at the earliest and offering banks a new round of cheap loans to help revive the euro zone economy.
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A gauge of global stock markets stumbled on Thursday while the U.S. dollar rose, as the European Central Bank postponed interest rate hikes to 2020 and launched a new round of cheap loans to banks in an effort to spark the euro zone economy. • The ECB's move puts it in sync with other central banks around the world that have been taking a dovish tack, including the Bank of Canada earlier this week. The ECB also cut its growth and inflation estimates for 2019 as well as those for 2020 and 2021, raising alarm bells for investors once again over global growth.
FOREX	The euro sank on Thursday to its lowest against the dollar since June 2017 after the European Central Bank postponed the timing of its first post-crisis rate hike to 2020 at the earliest and launched a new round of cheap loans to banks. The ECB's decision to tweak its forward guidance on rates was a surprise for many investors. The central bank also cut its growth and inflation forecasts through 2021. Anemic domestic demand and political tensions will unlikely be resolved by an easy ECB policy stance and would keep downward pressure on the euro, analysts said. Currencies of European countries not part of the euro zone, such as the Swedish crown and Hungarian forint, fell hard after the ECB's decision, which is aimed at battling deteriorating regional business and consumer activities, analysts said. On the other hand, the greenback reached a new 2019 high against a basket of currencies that includes the euro as traders bet the United States would fare better than Europe in the coming months despite some soft patches in the U.S. economy. The euro sagged to $1.1206, its lowest level since mid-2017. It was last 0.81 percent lower at $1.1216 in midday U.S. trading. The euro is at risk of falling to $1.10 in the coming weeks, analysts said. The Swedish crown fell to its weakest since Dec. 15, 2016 at 9.4185 per dollar. It was down 0.62 percent at 10.581 per euro, Reuters data showed. The Hungarian forint shed 0.99 against the dollar and dipped 0.1 percent against the euro. The ICE index that tracks the dollar against a basket of six major currencies was up 0.63 percent at 97.483 after touching 97.499, which was its highest since Dec. 17. Among other G10 currencies, the Canadian and Australian dollars hovered at two-month lows after investors bet their central banks would ease monetary policy as their economies slow. The Aussie was down 0.06 percent at $0.7028, while the loonie was up 0.10 percent at C$1.3428.
GOLD	Gold edged lower on Thursday, holding near a multi-week low as the dollar gained against the euro after the European Central Bank postponed an interest rate hike, but the bank's gloomy economic outlook limited the metal's fall. Spot gold was down 0.1 percent at $1,285.61 per ounce as of 2:00 p.m. EST (1900 GMT). It hit $1,280.70 on Tuesday, the lowest since Jan. 25. U.S. gold futures settled down 0.1 percent at $1,286.1 per ounce. The ECB slashed its 2019 growth and inflation forecasts and lowered those for 2020 and 2021 on Thursday, acknowledging that Europe's slowdown was longer and deeper than earlier thought. The euro dipped against the dollar following the ECB's monetary policy statement, which was a surprise for many investors. The dollar, measured against a basket of currencies, rose to a near three-month peak as the euro sold off. Germany, the euro zone's biggest economy, stagnated in the fourth quarter and Italy is in outright

	recession, raising the risk that a temporary slowdown will become a more lasting downturn as business confidence is sapped by a steady flow of negative news. The ECB announcement compounded worries of a global slowdown, helping bolster the overall sentiment for bullion, considered a safe store of value during times of economic or political uncertainty. The U.S. non-farm payrolls report on Friday could provide further signals on the strength of the economy and how it would affect the Federal Reserve's monetary policy. Also supporting gold was strong buying from central banks, analysts said, with China, the world's biggest consumer of the metal, increasing its gold reserves to 60.260 million fine troy ounces in February from 59.940 million troy ounces at end-January. Palladium fell 0.7 percent to $1,527.02 per ounce and silver dipped 0.3 percent to $15.03. Silver touched a low of $14.96, its weakest since the end of December. Platinum was down 1.9 percent at $811 per ounce.
OIL	Oil prices edged higher on Wednesday, supported by OPEC-led supply cuts and U.S. sanctions against exporters Venezuela and Iran, but gains were capped by falling stock markets and renewed concerns over demand growth. Brent crude futures gained 27 cents, or 0.4 percent, to $66.26 a barrel by 1:01 p.m. EST (1801 GMT). U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude futures rose 46 cents, or 0.8 percent, to $56.68 a barrel. The Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and allies such as Russia this year have aimed to cut output and tighten oil markets, which has supported prices. U.S. sanctions against the oil industries of OPEC members Iran and Venezuela have also had an impact on futures, traders said. Venezuela's state-run oil firm PDVSA this week declared a maritime emergency, citing trouble accessing tankers and personnel to export its oil due to sanctions. When the United States reimposed sanctions against Iran in November, Washington granted waivers to eight Iranian oil buyers. The waivers allowed them to buy limited amounts of crude for another 180 days. Washington has put pressure on these governments to gradually cut their oil imports from Iran to zero, but importers remain in talks over potential extensions. India wants to keep buying Iranian oil at its current level of about 300,000 barrels per day (bpd), as it negotiates with Washington about extending a sanctions waiver past early May, two sources in India with knowledge of the matter said. Signs of strong demand for refined products from U.S. Energy Information Administration data on Wednesday also kept prices lifted. However, prices were pressured on Thursday by concerns surrounding Europe's economy, which pushed Wall Street lower and fueled worries about global oil demand. To stimulate a struggling euro zone economy, the European Central Bank pushed out the timing of its first post-crisis rate hike to next year at the earliest on Thursday and offered banks new rounds of multi-year cash. Further, oil remains in plentiful supply thanks to surging U.S. production. U.S. crude oil production was at a record 12.1 million bpd last week. Elsewhere, Libya's El Sharara oilfield is pumping 135,000 barrels a day with output rising, state oil firm NOC said on Thursday.
