GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	U.S. stocks climbed on Thursday as Treasury yields rose off 15-year lows, with investors optimistic about the latest round of U.S.-China trade talks. But the day's advance was limited by concerns about economic data. The domestic economy slowed more than initially thought in the fourth quarter, keeping growth in 2018 below the 3 percent annual target, and corporate profits failed to rise for the first time in more than two years. Worries about economic growth hit markets last week after the Federal Reserve abandoned projections for any interest rate hikes this year and the U.S. Treasury yield curve inverted for the first time since 2007. While investors cheered the Fed's move, they are more worried now about a weakening earnings and economic outlook, said Hugh Johnson, chief investment officer of Hugh Johnson Advisors LLC in Albany, New York. Benchmark 10-year yields rose off 15-month lows but the yield curve between three-month bills and 10-year notes remained inverted. If it persists, the inverted yield could indicate that a recession is likely in one to two years. Senior U.S. officials arrived in Beijing on Thursday for a fresh round of trade talks, which will be followed by a round in Washington next week. Trade-sensitive industrial stocks rose 0.8 percent and were among the day's top-performing sectors. On Wednesday, U.S. officials told Reuters China had made unprecedented proposals in talks on a range of issues, including forced technology transfer, as the countries work to overcome the remaining obstacles to a deal to end their trade war. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 91.87 points, or 0.36 percent, to 25,717.46, the S&P 500 gained 10.07 points, or 0.36 percent, to 2,815.44 and the Nasdaq Composite added 25.79 points, or 0.34 percent, to 7,669.17. Consumer discretionary stocks rose 0.6 percent, helped by gains in shares of clothing firm PVH Corp. Calvin Klein's owner forecast full-year adjusted profit and sales above Wall Street's expectations.
Nikkei	Japan's Nikkei slipped on Thursday as sliding U.S. bond yields fed fears about a slowdown in the world's largest economy and a deepening downturn globally, putting a dent on cyclical stocks such as exporters. The Nikkei share average ended 1.6 percent lower at 21,033.76. Benchmark 10-year Treasury yields fell to 15-month lows on Wednesday, keeping the yield curve inverted in a signal of a future U.S. recession. Also fuelling concerns about growth, New Zealand's central bank on Wednesday stunned markets with a sharp shift to a dovish stance, while the European Central Bank delayed a planned increase in rates in the face of rising global growth risks. The economic gloom saw Germany sell 10-year debt with a negative yield for the first time since the autumn of 2016. But he said that when the index falls below its psychologically important 21,000-line, selling tends to ease. Exporters were sold off, as the dollar slipped 0.4 percent to 110.09 yen.
Kospi	South Korea's KOSPI stock index closed down on Thursday as investors remained cautious over global growth concerns as well as corporate earnings. The Korean won edged down, while the benchmark bond yield also fell. Worries that the inversion of the U.S. Treasury curve signalled a future recession only deepened as 10-year yields fell to a fresh 15-month low at 2.34 percent. The latest lunge lower was led by German bunds where 10-year yields dived deeper into negative territory after European Central Bank President Mario Draghi said a hike in interest rates could be further delayed. Drop in global bond yields also towed the most liquid 3-year Korean treasury bond yield fell by 4.7 basis points to 1.679 percent, while the benchmark 10-year yield fell by 3.5 basis points to 1.810 percent. The Seoul stock market's main KOSPI index ended down 17.52 points, or 0.82 percent, to 2,128.10 points, extending its losses to a second day. Asiana Airlines' ended up 2.9 percent after Chief Executive Park Sam-koo stepped down from the post to take responsibility for the fiasco over its 2018 financial statements, its parent Kumho Asiana Group said on Thursday. Another affiliate Kumho Industrial closed down 2.1 percent. Shares of Hyundai AutoEver, an affiliate of South Korean automaker Hyundai Motor, surged 17.5 percent on market debut. Hyundai Motor owns 28.48 percent shares in AutoEver, while Chung Eui-sun, executive vice chairman of Hyundai Motor Group, owns 19.47 percent of shares in AutoEver.
Hang Seng &	➤ Hong Kong shares clawed back from losses to close slightly higher on Thursday, as hopes of a positive outcome from U.S.-China trade talks helped to lift sentiment, but falling U.S. Treasury yields

continued to feed investors' recession fears. At the close of trade, the Hang Seng index was up 46.96 points, or 0.16 percent, at 28,775.21. The Hang Seng China Enterprises index fell 0.09 percent to 11,294.81. The sub-index of the Hang Seng tracking energy shares dipped 0.2 percent, while the IT sector declined 0.18 percent, the financial sector ended 0.1 percent lower and the property sector rose 1.25 percent. The Hang Seng had spent much of the day in negative territory, with falling U.S. 10-year yields feeding fears that an inverted U.S. Treasury yield curve could signal a recession. Yields on 10-year U.S. Treasuries fell to a fresh 15-month low on Thursday of 2.34 percent, and were last at 2.3629 percent. But helping to lift sentiment, Reuters reported that the United States and China have made progress in all areas under discussion in trade talks, with unprecedented movement on the touchy issue of forced technology transfers. U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer and Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin arrived in Beijing for the latest round of talks Thursday. The top gainer on the Hang Seng was China Mengniu Dairy Co Ltd, which gained 5.47 percent, while the biggest loser was Sino Biopharmaceutical Ltd, which fell 1.00 percent. China's main Shanghai Composite index closed down 0.92 percent at 2,994.94 points, while the blue-chip CSI300 index ended down 0.4 percent.

➤ Chinese shares ended weaker on Thursday as lingering concerns over the economy and trade weighed on investor sentiment, despite government pledges to open markets and indications of progress in Sino-U.S. trade talks.

At the close, the Shanghai Composite index was down 0.92 percent at 2,994.94. The blue-chip CSI300 index was down 0.4 percent, with its financial sector sub-index lower by 0.86 percent and the real estate index down 1.3 percent.

Bucking the broader trend, healthcare shares ended up 0.26 percent and a sub-index tracking the consumer staples sector rose 1.86 percent, as distiller Wuliangye Yibin climbed to a 14-month high on robust profit growth.

Investor concerns over U.S.-China trade continued to drag on markets despite a Reuters report that the United States and China have made progress in all areas under discussion in trade talks, with unprecedented movement on the touchy issue of forced technology transfers.

China has also pledged to "sharply" expand opening of its financial market amid the simmering Sino-U.S. trade war. China will allow greater market access for foreign banks and insurance companies, especially in its financial services sector, Premier Li Keqiang said on Thursday.

Li's remarks, made in a speech at the annual Boao forum held on China's southern island of Hainan, added to speculation that China might soon announce new rules that will allow foreign banks and insurance firms to increase their presence in China.

The smaller Shenzhen index ended down 0.9 percent and the start-up board ChiNext Composite index was weaker by 0.669 percent.
