GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The pace of purchasing activity in Canada, measuring the monthly variation in economic activity, climbed off at 5-month low in March, according to Ivey Purchasing Managers Index (PMI) data released on Thursday. The seasonally adjusted index rose to 54.3, up from 50.6 in February, surpassing analysts' expectations for 51.1.</li> <li>• Germany's leading economic institutes slashed their forecasts for 2019 growth by more than half on Thursday and warned that the economy - Europe's largest - could slow much more if Britain quits the European Union without an agreement. Industrial orders in Germany fell by the biggest margin in more than two years in February, slumping 4.2 percent, highlighting the extent of the slowdown amid global trade disputes and the risk of a no-deal Brexit, which could happen at the end of next week.</li> <li>• European Central Bank policymakers debated the risk that ultra-low interest rates pose to banks, the accounts of the March meeting showed on Thursday, likely fuelling a debate about measures to aid lenders. Fearing a sharp slowdown in economic growth, the ECB reversed course last month, delaying a planned interest rate hike until 2020 and giving banks fresh access to ultra cheap central bank funding.</li> <li>• Britain could ask the European Union for a long Brexit delay next week if crisis talks between Prime Minister Theresa May's government and the opposition Labour Party fail to find a way out of the impasse over the divorce from the European Union.</li> <li>• The number of Americans filing applications for unemployment benefits fell to a more than 49-year low last week, pointing to sustained labor market strength despite slowing economic growth. Other data on Thursday showed U.S.-based companies announced fewer layoffs in March, but job cuts for the first quarter were the highest since 2015. The economy is losing momentum as the stimulus from a $1.5 trillion tax cut package fades.</li> <li>• The White House is not expected to announce a date on Thursday for a trade summit between U.S. President Donald Trump and Chinese President Xi Jinping, a senior administration official said, as negotiators for the two sides launch another day of talks.</li> </ul>
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Global stocks held near the unchanged mark on Thursday, as investors looked for more detailed signs of progress in U.S.-China trade talks while disappointing economic data out of Germany knocked the euro.</li> <li>• U.S. President Donald Trump said on Thursday trade talks with China were going well and he would only accept a "great" deal as negotiators hammered out differences ahead of a meeting between Trump and China's vice premier later in the day.</li> <li>• After a run of mixed economic data, Friday's U.S. payrolls report also loomed large for investors for signs the labor market remained robust. Labor market data on Thursday showed weekly jobless claims fell to their lowest since 1969.</li> </ul>
FOREX	The euro dipped on Thursday as weak German economic data and a report that Italy would slash its growth forecasts prompted fears about weakening growth in the region. German industrial orders fell by the sharpest rate in more than two years in February as they were hit by a slump in foreign demand, compounding worries that Europe's largest economy had a weak start to the year. Reuters also reported that Italy this month will probably cut its 2019 economic growth forecast to 0.3 percent or 0.4 percent and raise the budget deficit target to around 2.3 percent of gross domestic product. The single currency fell 0.15% against the greenback to $1.1217. The euro is nearing the $1.1174 level reached on March 7, which if broken would send the currency to its weakest levels since June 2017. Investors are focused on trade discussions between the United States and China on the hope that an agreement will remove headwinds to global growth. U.S. President Donald Trump said on Thursday that trade talks with China were going well and he would only accept a "great" deal as negotiators hammered out differences ahead of a meeting between Trump and China's vice premier later in the day.

	The next U.S. economic focus will be Friday's employment report for March. Sterling fell as concerns grew that Britain may be headed for a protracted Brexit delay.
GOLD	Gold inched higher on Thursday, after touching a near 10-week low earlier in the session as the dollar firmed on U.S. jobs data, while investors awaited clarity on U.S.-China trade talks. Spot gold inched 0.2 percent higher to $1,292.72 per ounce as of 3:06 p.m. EDT (1906 GMT). U.S. gold futures settled little changed at $1,294.3. The yellow metal had earlier touched its lowest since Jan. 25 at $1,280.59 weighed down by a stronger dollar. The dollar was up 0.2 percent against a basket of currencies as U.S. jobless claims hit a 49-year low last week, pointing to sustained labor market strength despite slowing economic growth. However, mixed data through the week from around the world did not assure market participants that all was well. Analysts now await the closely watched U.S. non-farm payrolls data on Friday for further clues on the strength of the U.S. economy. Investors are also watching developments in the U.S.-China trade conflict, with U.S. President Donald Trump expected to announce a date for a summit with China's President Xi Jinping. Holdings in the world's largest gold-backed exchange-traded fund, SPDR Gold Trust, fell for a third straight session on Wednesday. Holdings were at their lowest since Dec. 17 at 24.57 million ounces. Among other precious metals, spot platinum was last up 2.6 percent at $897.25 an ounce, having earlier hit its highest since mid-June at $901.49 an ounce. The auto-catalyst metal jumped 3.4 percent in the previous session, the most in more than two years. Palladium was down 2.8 percent at $1,365.01 and silver was little changed at $15.13.
OIL	Brent oil prices rose on Thursday, touching $70 a barrel briefly for the first time since November as expectations of tight global supply outweighed pressure from rising U.S. production and less robust global demand indicators. International benchmark Brent futures rose 72 cents a barrel to touch an intraday high of $70.03 before retreating to $69.93 by 2:03 p.m. EDT. Brent was at its highest since Nov. 12, when it last traded above $70. U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude rose 15 cents a barrel to trade at $62.62. The contract hit $62.99 on Wednesday, also its highest since November. Brent has gained 30 percent this year, while WTI has risen nearly 40 percent, underpinned by U.S. sanctions on Iranian and Venezuelan crude, OPEC production cuts and rising global demand. The Caixin/Markit services purchasing managers' index (PMI) rose to 54.4, the highest since January 2018 and up from February's 51.1, a private business survey of China's service sector showed on Wednesday. Trade talks between the United States and China made good headway last week in Beijing and the two sides aim to bridge differences during further talks, White House economic adviser Larry Kudlow said on Wednesday. But the gains were moderated during the session, with U.S. crude briefly turning negative. German industrial orders fell by the sharpest rate in more than two years in February, according to data released Thursday. Orders were hit by a slump in foreign demand, compounding worries that Europe's largest economy had a weak start to the year. Crude oil inventories in the United States rose by 7.2 million barrels last week, whereas analysts had forecast a decrease. U.S. crude production climbed by 100,000 barrels per day to a record 12.2 million bpd, government data showed.
