GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> China's central bank on Monday called for more coordination between the country's monetary policy, fiscal policy and other policies as Beijing seeks to fend off risks and maintain stable economic growth. Canadian home sales rose 0.9% month-over-month in March, edging higher after a sharp drop in the previous month, the Canadian Real Estate Association said on Monday. Canadian firms expect sales growth to be "marginally faster" over the next year even as business sentiment has softened with several businesses less optimistic about demand, a Bank of Canada survey said on Friday. Asking prices for British homes rose by the most in over a year in the four weeks to April 6, a survey showed, adding to other tentative signs that the housing market may have passed the worst of its slowdown ahead of Brexit. U.S. negotiators have tempered demands that China curb industrial subsidies as a condition for a trade deal after strong resistance from Beijing, according to two sources briefed on discussions, marking a retreat on a core U.S. objective for the trade talks.
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Underwhelming quarterly results from U.S. banks limited gains in world stocks on Monday, and oil prices fell after Russia said it and OPEC may decide to boost production. U.S. Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin said he hoped the trade talks were approaching a final lap. Reuters reported on Sunday that U.S. negotiators have tempered demands that China curb industrial subsidies as a condition for a trade deal after strong resistance from Beijing.
FOREX	The dollar was little changed against the euro on Monday as investors focused on European manufacturing data due on Thursday for signs that growth in the region is improving. Improving European data would likely bolster risk appetite and send equities prices higher. That in turn could be negative for the greenback as investors chase higher-yielding opportunities elsewhere. Although the dollar tends to underperform when risk appetite grows, data on Friday showed speculators bolstered their net long dollar position in the latest week. It is now at its highest level since December 2015, while traders remain short the euro. Data on Friday showing that China's exports rebounded in March while new bank loans rose more than expected has helped to boost risk sentiment. Investors are also focused on U.S.-China trade talks, with any deal between the two countries seen as likely to remove headwinds to global growth. U.S. Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin said on Saturday a U.S.-China trade agreement would go "way beyond" previous efforts to open China's markets to U.S. companies and he hoped that the two sides were "close to the final round" of negotiations. U.S. negotiators have tempered demands that China curb industrial subsidies as a condition for a trade deal after strong resistance from Beijing, according to two sources briefed on discussions, marking a retreat on a core U.S. objective for the trade talks.
GOLD	Gold fell to its lowest in more than a week on Monday as hopes the United States and China would reach a trade deal lifted appetite for riskier asset even as the dollar retreated. Spot gold was down 0.2 percent at $1,287.61 per ounce at 1:45 p.m. EDT (1745 GMT), off a low of $1,281.96, its lowest since April 4. U.S. gold futures settled down 0.3 percent at $1,291.30 an ounce. U.S. Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin said on Saturday he hoped Washington and Beijing were "close to the final round" of negotiations to resolve the trade dispute between the world's two biggest economies. Signs the two countries were heading for a deal to end the bitter dispute - marked by tit-for-tat tariffs that have cost the two economies billions and rattled financial markets - lifted investor sentiment and dented demand safe-haven gold. U.S. data last week showing import prices rose for a third straight month in March, coupled with positive Chinese export and euro zone industrial production numbers, assuaged some

	concerns over global growth, also limiting demand for gold. On the technical front, prices fell below the 100-day moving average around $1,287, which traders said could be a bearish signal. The metal also broke below the key psychological $1,300 mark last week, pointing to a further negative bias. Spot platinum and palladium fell 0.5 percent to $881.50 per ounce and to $1,364.38 per ounce, respectively. Silver rose 0.2 percent to $14.98 an ounce. Earlier in the session prices touched their lowest since Dec. 26 at $14.81.
OIL	Oil prices halted their rally on Monday, with both benchmarks down nearly 1 percent, after Russia's finance minister said Russia and OPEC may decide to boost production to fight for market share with the United States, where output remains at record highs. Losses were limited by a tightening of global supplies, as output has fallen in Iran and Venezuela amid signs the United States will further toughen sanctions on those two OPEC producers, and on the threat that renewed fighting could wipe out crude production in Libya. Brent crude futures ended the session at $71.18 a barrel, down 37 cents, or 0.5 percent, having earlier slid below $71. Brent hit its highest since Nov. 12 on Friday at $71.87. U.S. West Texas Intermediate crude futures fell 49 cents, or 0.8 percent, to settle at $63.40 per barrel. Oil prices have been lifted by more than 30 percent this year, mainly due to a deal by the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and its allies including Russia, known as OPEC+, to curb by 1.2 million barrels per day from Jan. 1 for six months. The group will meet in June to decide whether to continue withholding supply. Russian Finance Minister Anton Siluanov said over the weekend that Russia and OPEC may decide to boost production to fight for market share with the United States, but this would push oil as low as $40 per barrel. While the minister said he did not know whether OPEC countries would be happy with this scenario, the group's de facto leader, Saudi Arabia, is considered keen to keep cutting, but sources within OPEC said it could raise output from July if disruptions continue elsewhere. Oil prices have faced pressure from a surge in U.S. crude output, which is at a weekly record of 12.2 million bpd, thanks to a shale revolution. U.S. crude oil output from seven major shale formations is expected to rise by about 80,000 bpd in May to a record 8.46 million bpd, the government said. The U.S. drilling rig count, an indicator of future production, last week rose for a second week in a row.
