GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>China's economy grew at a steady 6.4 percent pace in the first quarter, defying expectations for a further slowdown, as industrial production jumped sharply and consumer demand showed signs of improvement.</li> <li>Britain's markets watchdog will review its rules as the country readies to leave the European Union, the source of its financial regulation for decades.</li> <li>Canada's annual inflation rate edged up to 1.9 percent in March from 1.5 percent in February as the downward pressure from gasoline prices lessened, easing market expectations that the Bank of Canada would cut interest rates by year end.</li> <li>New Zealand's inflation slowed more than expected in the first quarter, undershooting central bank forecasts and sending the local currency skidding to a three-month low as markets raised the chances of a rate cut in coming months.</li> </ul>
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Stocks around the globe fell on Wednesday as a continued flight from healthcare shares dragged on Wall Street, overshadowing upbeat economic data from China.</li> <li>China's industrial output surged 8.5% in March from a year earlier, the fastest pace since July 2014 and well above forecasts of a 5.9% increase. Retail sales also pleased, with a rise of 8.7%.</li> <li>The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 3.12 points, or 0.01%, to 26,449.54, the S&amp;P 500 lost 6.61 points, or 0.23%, to 2,900.45 and the Nasdaq Composite dropped 4.15 points, or 0.05%, to 7,996.08.</li> </ul>
FOREX	The greenback weakened against the euro on Wednesday as better-than-expected economic growth data in China bolstered risk appetite and a day ahead of the release of closely watched economic data for the euro zone. China's economy grew at a steady 6.4 percent pace in the first quarter, defying expectations for a further slowdown, as industrial production surged and consumer demand showed signs of improvement. Investors are closely watching Chinese and European economic data for signals that global growth is recovering. The release of Purchasing Managers Indexes (PMIs) for the manufacturing and service sectors in Europe on Thursday will provide the next indication of the strength of the European economy. Investment inflows into Europe have been improving, which may give the euro a boost against the greenback. The Australian dollar jumped on the Chinese data before giving back the gains. The currency is sensitive to the economic fortunes of China, Australia's biggest trading partner. The Aussie weakened on Tuesday after the Reserve Bank of Australia said that a cut in interest rates would be "appropriate" should inflation stay low and unemployment trend higher. The New Zealand dollar fell after data showed that annual inflation slowed in the first quarter, which raised the odds of an interest rate cut in the coming months. Other data on Wednesday showed that the U.S. trade deficit fell to an eight-month low in February as imports from China plunged, temporarily providing a boost to President Donald Trump's "America First" agenda and economic growth in the first quarter.
GOLD	Gold fell on Wednesday, holding near the 2019 lows touched in the previous session, as economic growth data from China assuaged concerns about global growth and drove investors into riskier assets. Spot gold slipped 0.2 percent to $1,274.15 per ounce as of 1:40 p.m. EDT (1740 GMT), after having fallen as much as 1.2 percent to $1,272.70, its lowest since Dec. 27, on Tuesday. U.S. gold futures settled unchanged at $1,276.80. China's economic growth in the first quarter remained steady at 6.4 percent, topping expectations for a 6.3 percent expansion. The data boosted global appeal for riskier assets and pushed overall gains in stock markets. However, a slightly weaker dollar gave some support for bullion, analysts said. On the technical front, gold's break below the psychologically significant $1,300-per-ounce mark and other key support levels, including the 100- and 50-day moving averages, signaled a further downside to prices, analysts and traders said. Further weakness in gold is possible in the near term, potentially testing the $1,259 level, which is likely to hold, Commerzbank analysts wrote in a research note. Holdings of SPDR Gold Trust, the world's largest gold-backed exchange-traded fund, have fallen 4.5

	percent this year. On the flip side, gold was likely to climb toward $1,400, while silver could rise to $17 per ounce by year-end since overall weak global growth could take a toll on both equity prices and risk appetite, analysts at Capital Economics said in a note. Silver rose 0.1 percent to $14.99 an ounce. Meanwhile, spot palladium jumped more than 4 percent to a near two-week high at $1,406.81 an ounce. The metal had soared to an all-time peak of $1,620.53 last month driven by a stark supply deficit. Platinum gained 0.7 percent to $883. Both metals are primarily consumed by automakers for catalytic converter manufacturing, but platinum is more heavily used in the diesel vehicles that have fallen out of favor since the Volkswagen emissions-rigging scandal broke in 2015.
OIL	Crude prices declined slightly on Wednesday as U.S. government data showed inventories drew down less than an industry report had suggested on Tuesday. Brent crude rallied to its highest level this year early in the session, bolstered by an unexpected drop in U.S. crude inventories reported by trade group the American Petroleum Institute late on Tuesday. However, official data from the Energy Information Administration on Wednesday showed a 1.4 million-barrel crude drawdown, about half the API's reported decline. Brent crude futures settled down 10 cents at $71.62 a barrel. During the session, the contract touched $72.27 a barrel, the highest this year. U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude futures settled down 29 cents per barrel at $63.76 a barrel. The contract touched an intraday high of $64.61 a barrel, just shy of a 2019 high of $64.79 hit last week. Crude continued to be supported by steady economic growth in China. China's economy grew by 6.4 percent in the first quarter, official data showed, defying expectations for a further slowdown and assuaging global markets as a U.S.-China trade deal also appears near. Refinery throughput in China - the world's second-largest crude user - rose 3.2 percent in March from a year earlier. Prices have been supported this year by a pact reached by the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and allies, including Russia, to limit their oil output by 1.2 million barrels per day. Global supply has been tightened further by U.S. sanctions on OPEC members Venezuela and Iran. Iran's crude exports have dropped in April to their lowest daily level this year, tanker data showed and industry sources said, suggesting a drawdown in buyer interest ahead of expected further pressure from Washington. In June, OPEC and its partners will decide whether to extend their agreement, but Russia's willingness to stick with the cuts now looks less clear. Gazprom Neft, the oil arm of Russian gas company Gazprom, expects the global oil deal to end in the first half of the year, a company official said.
