GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | OIL |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Japan's industrial output fell in January-March at the fastest pace in almost five years, suggesting the economy may post a mild contraction in the first quarter as manufacturers struggle with the U.S.-Sino trade war. • With Brexit looming, British factories stockpiled over the last three months at the fastest pace since records began in the 1950s, and they're increasingly downbeat about their prospects, a survey showed on Friday. • The Swiss National Bank must keep its interest rates negative and stand ready to intervene on currency markets to rein in the strong franc, SNB Chairman Thomas Jordan said, dismissing calls for the central bank to restore positive rates quickly. • U.S. economic growth accelerated in the first quarter, but the burst in growth was driven by a smaller trade deficit and the largest accumulation of unsold merchandise since 2015, temporary boosters that are seen weighing on the economy later this year.
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Global stock markets rose and the S&P 500 notched a record closing high for the second time this week on Friday as data showed U.S. economic growth accelerated in the first quarter, while the dollar fell against a basket of currencies. • The GDP report was not all upbeat, however. The jump in U.S. economic growth was driven by a smaller trade deficit and the largest accumulation of unsold merchandise since 2015, temporary factors that are likely to reverse in the coming quarters.
FOREX	The dollar fell against a basket of currencies on Friday, snapping a three-day streak of gains, after an overall strong U.S. first-quarter growth report was overshadowed by soft inflation data. Gross domestic product increased at a 3.2 percent annualized rate in the quarter, the Commerce Department said in its advance GDP report, released on Friday, versus the 2.0 percent estimated by economists polled by Reuters. The dollar, however, did not enjoy a boost from the report as traders focused on the core personal expenditures consumption price index figure, the Federal Reserve's preferred inflation gauge, which increased at only a 1.3% rate versus 1.8% in the prior quarter. The dollar index, which measures the greenback against six other major currencies, was 0.2% lower at 98.009. The index, which hit a 23-month high earlier in the session, is up 0.7% for the week. Recent U.S. data has been supportive of the greenback and reinforced the belief that the United States is on a firmer economic footing than other leading economies. The Fed, set to meet for two days next week, recently suspended its three-year monetary policy tightening campaign, dropping forecasts for any interest rate hikes this year. The euro, which is hovering near its weakest level against the dollar since May 2017 amid worries about the strength of the euro zone economy, was up 0.19% at $1.1151, ahead of a national election in Spain on Sunday. The British pound, up 0.19% on Friday, was headed to finish the week down 0.5%, dragged down by growing concern about stagnant talks around Britain's exit from the European Union, or Brexit.
GOLD	Gold jumped to a near two-week high on Friday, as the dollar slipped on tepid U.S. inflation data, outweighing an overall strong first-quarter growth report. Spot gold gained 0.7 percent to $1,286.41 per ounce as of 2:16 p.m. EDT (1816 GMT), after hitting its highest level since April 16, at $1,288.59. The metal, which on Tuesday touched its lowest level since late December, at $1,265.90, is up nearly 1 percent so far this week and is poised for its first weekly gain since March 22. U.S. gold futures settled 0.7 percent higher at $1,288.80 an ounce. The dollar index fell, making gold cheaper for holders of other currencies, after the U.S. first-quarter report on growth in gross domestic product, which was strong overall, was overshadowed by the soft inflation data. The core personal expenditures consumption price index figure, the Federal Reserve's

	preferred inflation gauge, increased at only a 1.3% rate versus 1.8% in the prior quarter. According to a Reuters poll, major central banks are done tightening policy as the global growth outlook has softened across developed and emerging economies, with scant prospects for a surge in inflation. While gold has fallen more than 4 percent from a peak in February, bullion's recovery from this week's four-month low is painting a neutral picture in technical charts. Among other precious metals, silver rose 0.7 percent to $15.04 per ounce, while platinum was up 1.7 percent to $897.25. Palladium advanced 3 percent to $1,458.01 per ounce, its highest level since March 27.
OIL	Oil prices fell 3% on Friday after U.S. President Donald Trump again pressured the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise crude production to ease gasoline prices. Brent crude futures settled at $72.15 a barrel, down $2.20, or 3 percent. West Texas Intermediate crude ended at $63.30 a barrel, down $1.91, or 2.9 percent. Brent was flat on the week after rallying for four weeks in a row. WTI saw a 1.2 percent weekly loss, breaking its six-week bull run. Crude futures were up over 30 percent this year after OPEC and several allies cut supply by 1.2 million barrels per day, and as sanctions on Venezuela and Iran have reduced output. On Thursday, Brent rose above $75 a barrel for the first time this year after Germany, Poland and Slovakia suspended imports of Russian crude via a major pipeline due to contamination. Russia, which said it believed the oil could have been deliberately contaminated, plans to restore oil supplies via its key Druzhba pipeline to Europe in two weeks. Trump told reporters on Friday that he had called OPEC and told the cartel to lower crude prices, without identifying who he spoke to. Since taking office, Trump has weighed in on OPEC on numerous occasions on Twitter, often exhorting the cartel to lower prices. His comments tend to have a temporary effect on the market, and some traders noted that the recent move higher made the market ripe for profit-taking. The market, however, pared some losses after U.S. oil drillers this week cut the most rigs since the week to Jan. 18, down 20 rigs to a total of 805, as independent producers follow through on plans to cut spending on new drilling and completions. Traders also said the selloff was in part due to rumors that Washington could grant China an exemption allowing it to keep buying Iran's oil, which would increase available worldwide supply. Two Trump administration officials refuted the rumors, saying neither a wind-down period nor a short-term waiver on China's oil purchases from Iran are being contemplated to their knowledge. The United States and China are continuing to negotiate a trade deal to end a months-long dispute.
