

Daily Outlook

GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	The Nasdaq fell on Tuesday as shares of Google-parent Alphabet tumbled following a revenue miss and Apple dropped, though the S&amp;P 500 eked out another record closing high. All three major indexes posted their best monthly percentage gains since January, wrapping up a month that brought the S&amp;P 500 and Nasdaq back to record-high territory and helped to restore investors' belief in the decade-long bull run. A less-worse-than-expected earnings season, positive economic data and hints of progress in U.S.-China trade talks have helped drive the recent gains. Weighing on the Nasdaq Tuesday and limiting gains in the S&amp;P 500, Alphabet Inc shares fell 7.5% and were on track for their worst decline since January 2012, after the company reported its slowest revenue growth in three years. The S&amp;P communication services sector slid 2.5%, dragged down by Alphabet, and registered its biggest percentage fall in about four months. Apple shares dropped 1.9% during the session, but reversed course and were trading up 4.3% after the bell following the release of its results. S&amp;P 500 e-mini futures also jumped after Apple's results and were last up 0.4%. With more than half of the S&amp;P 500 companies reporting, analysts now expect first-quarter earnings to have risen slightly, a stark reversal from the 2% fall estimated at the beginning of the month, according to Refinitiv data. During the regular session, Pfizer Inc and Merck &amp; Co Inc rose more than 2% each after the drugmakers beat quarterly earnings estimates. The Fed's two-day meeting that ends Wednesday will be in focus for hints on the direction of interest rates. The Dow Jones Industrial Average also ended higher, helped by gains in Chevron Corp. The company's shares rose 2% after Warren Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway Inc committed $10 billion to Occidental Petroleum Corp's bid for Anadarko Petroleum Corp, boosting its chances of snatching a deal from Chevron. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 38.52 points, or 0.15%, to 26,592.91, the S&amp;P 500 gained 2.8 points, or 0.10%, to 2,945.83 and the Nasdaq Composite dropped 54.01 points, or 0.66%, to 8,095.39. For the month, the Dow rose 2.6%, the S&amp;P 500 gained 3.9% and the Nasdaq added 4.9%. General Electric Co jumped 4.5% after the industrial conglomerate's first-quarter profit rose and its negative cash flow was smaller than expected.
Nikkei	Japan's financial markets are closed from Saturday, April 27 to Monday, May 6 for the Golden Week holidays. Reuters will resume coverage of Japanese stock markets and government bonds when markets reopen on May 7.
Kospi	South Korea's KOSPI stock index ended lower on Tuesday hit by disappointing China April factory growth but partially recovered in the afternoon as foreigners turn net buyers. The Korean won also weakened while the benchmark bond yield fell. The Seoul stock market's main KOSPI fell 12.84 points, or 0.58 percent, to 2,203.59 points. For the month, the KOSPI rose 2.94 percent. Foreigners were net buyers of 42.5 billion won ($36.40 million) worth of shares on the main board. The won was quoted at 1,168.2 per dollar on the onshore settlement platform, 0.83 percent lower than its previous close at 1,158.5. In offshore trading, the won was quoted at 1,168.3 per U.S. dollar, down 0.8 percent from the previous day, while in one-year non-deliverable forward trading its one-month contract was quoted at 1,167.0 per dollar. MSCI's broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan was down 0.56 percent, after U.S. stocks rose. The KOSPI has risen 7.96 percent so far this year, and rose 1.7 percent in the previous 30 trading sessions.
Hang Seng &amp; Shanghai	➤ Hong Kong shares ended weaker on Tuesday, dented by declines in property and energy stocks, as investors awaited fresh market stimulus after decent gains so far this year. The Hang Seng index closed 0.7 percent lower at 29,699.11, while the China Enterprises Index ended down 0.8 percent at 11,542.25 points. The market will be closed on Wednesday for Labour Day holiday, and will resume trading on Thursday, May 2. Hang Seng has gained roughly 15 percent so far this year, fuelled by expectations of China's economic

recovery, hopes for a Sino-U.S. trade deal, and more dovish stance by the U.S. Federal Reserve. Factory activity in China expanded for a second straight month in April but at a much lower pace than expected, an official survey showed on Tuesday, suggesting the economy is still struggling for traction despite a flurry of support measures.

The sub-index of the Hang Seng tracking energy shares dropped 1.8 percent, while the IT sector dipped 0.46 percent, the financial sector ended 0.28 percent lower and the property sector closed 1.21 percent down.

➤ China stocks rose on Tuesday despite lacklustre factory activity data, with some analysts saying that sharp corrections recently have largely reflected expectations of a slower economic growth.

The China market will be closed starting Wednesday due to the Labour Day holidays, and will reopen on Monday, May 6.

The blue-chip CSI300 index rose 0.3 percent, to 3,913.21, while the Shanghai Composite Index gained 0.5 percent to 3,078.34.

Factory activity in China expanded for a second straight month in April but at a much slower pace than expected, an official survey showed on Tuesday, suggesting the economy is still struggling for traction despite a flurry of support measures.

Yang Hongxun, Shanghai-based analyst at investment consultancy Shandong Shengguang, said that after the recent correction, investors are looking past weak economic data.

The CSI300 financial sector sub-index rose 0.12 percent, the consumer staples sector added 0.65 percent, the real estate index gained 0.35 percent and the healthcare sub-index shed 0.29 percent.
