GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• China's factory-gate inflation in April quickened at its fastest pace in four months, buoyed by higher commodity prices and a sign demand may be starting to perk up as Beijing rolls out more stimulus.</li> <li>• Chinese banks throttled back new lending in April after a record first quarter that sparked fears of more bad loans, but analysts say the central bank will likely have to step up support for the economy as trade tensions with the United States escalate.</li> <li>• China appealed to the United States to meet it halfway to salvage a deal that could end their trade war, with its chief negotiator in Washington for two days of talks hoping to stave off U.S. tariff hikes set to be triggered on Friday.</li> <li>• New Zealand's central bank governor on Thursday cited a slowing in global economic growth as the reason the bank cut its official cash rate (OCR), adding that the outlook for interest rates looked balanced at the moment.</li> <li>• Canada's trade deficit in March shrank slightly to C$3.21 billion ($2.38 billion) but was still the 12th largest on record, Statistics Canada said on Thursday, underscoring the headwinds still facing exporters.</li> <li>• The Bank of England is unlikely to raise interest rates far or fast, even if the economy picks up following a smooth Brexit, Monetary Policy Committee member Michael Saunders said in an interview published on Thursday.</li> <li>• The U.S. goods trade deficit with China, a focus of President Donald Trump's "America First" agenda, dropped to a five-year low in March amid a surge in exports, including soybeans.</li> <li>• The number of Americans filing applications for unemployment benefits fell less than expected last week, which could raise concerns that the robust labor market was losing some momentum.</li> <li>• U.S. President Donald Trump said on Thursday he was taking steps to authorize new tariffs on $325 billion in Chinese imports as officials prepared for last-ditch talks to avert an escalation of a trade war that threatens to derail the global economy.</li> </ul>
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Stock indexes around the world fell for a fourth day in a row on Thursday, though Wall Street closed above session lows after comments from President Donald Trump about U.S.-China trade talks a day before the United States was due to raise tariffs.</li> <li>• Trump said Thursday afternoon he received a "beautiful letter" from Chinese President Xi Jinping asking to work together to "get something done."</li> <li>• Earlier in the day China had asked the United States to meet it halfway in the hope of staving off threat of a U.S. tariff hike on $200 billion of Chinese goods to 25% from 10% at 12:01 a.m EDT (0400 GMT) on Friday.</li> </ul>
FOREX	The Japanese yen surged to a three-month high against the dollar on Thursday, with the Swiss franc at a three-week high as investors sought out the safe-haven currencies, fearing the U.S.-China trade conflict would escalate. Two days of negotiations began in Washington on Thursday, and traders are waiting to see whether Chinese and U.S. officials can salvage a deal to prevent more U.S. tariff increases. Currency moves this week in response to the latest trade developments have been fairly muted, but Thursday's jump in the yen and the Swiss franc - which tend to attract demand in times of strife - suggested investor nerves have begun to fray. The yen was 0.35% stronger midafternoon, having pared back some of its gains to trade at 109.7 to the dollar. The dollar bought 1.015 Swiss francs, though earlier in the day traded at 1.013, the weakest since April 18. Some investors predicted both safe havens have further to run. The main casualties have been the Australian dollar, a proxy for Chinese economic prospects, the U.S. dollar and the offshore Chinese yuan. The dollar index was 0.21% lower, last at 97.415. The yuan fell to a four-month low of 6.863, but was last down 0.43% to 6.837.

	U.S. President Donald Trump said on Thursday he was taking steps to authorize new tariffs on $325 billion in Chinese imports as officials prepared for last-ditch talks to avert an escalation of a trade war that threatens to derail the global economy.
GOLD	Gold prices rose on Thursday, supported by a weaker dollar and as investors sought safe-haven assets after U.S. President Donald Trump warned a trade deal with China was in danger, sending global stocks lower. Concerns about the continuing trade dispute's potential impact on economic growth has also weighed on palladium prices, which tumbled to their lowest in four months. Spot gold gained 0.3 percent at $1,284.55 per ounce as of 1:57 p.m. EDT (1757 GMT), having climbed to its highest since April 15 at $1,291.39 on Wednesday. U.S. gold futures settled up 0.3 percent at $1,285.20 an ounce. The U.S. Trade Representative's office has said that tariffs on $200 billion worth of Chinese goods would increase to 25 percent from 10 percent at 12:01 a.m. (0401) GMT on Friday, right in the middle of two days of meetings between Chinese Vice Premier Liu He and Trump's top trade officials in Washington. The Japanese yen surged to a three-month high against the dollar, while world stocks fell for a fourth day on Thursday. Gold, along with the Japanese yen and U.S. Treasuries, is seen as a relatively safe investment in times of political and financial crisis. While gold has drawn support from risk-averse markets, prices have not embarked on a significant uptrend. Palladium fell for the fourth straight session, down 1.7 percent at $1,295.50 per ounce. The metal had fallen as much as 4 percent to its lowest level since Jan. 4 earlier in the session. Silver slipped 0.4 percent to $14.78 per ounce, while platinum fell 1 percent to $848.25 per ounce. Both metals hit one-week lows earlier in the session.
OIL	Brent oil futures settled slightly higher on Thursday, rebounding from a drop after U.S. President Donald Trump revived investor hopes that the United States might not raise tariffs on Chinese imports, a step that could hit economic growth and crimp oil demand. The trade dispute between the world's two biggest economies and a sharp drop in global equity markets has hit oil prices, outweighing geopolitical tensions and supply cuts that have lowered global supplies from Latin America, Africa and the Middle East. Brent settled 2 cents higher at $70.39 a barrel, rebounding from a session low of $69.40 a barrel. U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude futures settled down 42 cents at $61.70 per barrel. Prices bounced off session lows after Trump said he received a "beautiful letter" from Chinese President Xi Jinping. Trump quoted the letter as saying: "Let's work together let's see if we can get something done." The U.S. Energy Information Administration expects global oil demand to rise by 1.4 million barrels per day (bpd) this year. OPEC's top producer Saudi Arabia has been reluctant to add barrels to global supply because it fears a price crash, even as the organization is unsure of global supplies for the second half of the year, OPEC sources said. Brent and WTI have risen more than 30 percent so far this year. Earlier this week, data showing a surprise drop in U.S. crude inventories also buoyed prices. The U.S. tariffs on $200 billion of Chinese goods would rise to 25 percent without a deal on Friday. China has threatened to retaliate, triggering a flight to safety among investors.
