GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mexico can reach an agreement with the United States to resolve a dispute over migration that prompted U.S. President Donald Trump to threaten punitive tariffs, Mexican officials said on Monday as high-level talks were set to begin in Washington. • China's factory activity expanded at a steady but modest pace in May, a private survey showed, but analysts say front-loading of exports by firms to the United States to avoid higher tariffs masked underlying weakness in the economy. Manufacturers in the world's second-biggest economy have come under severe pressure recently from an escalating trade dispute with the United States. An official gauge on factory activity last week showed conditions deteriorating as both domestic and external demand slackened. Monday's Caixin/Markit Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) also showed only modest expansion at 50.2, unchanged from April, and above economists' expectations of 50.0. • Boris Johnson, frontrunner to be Britain's next prime minister, promised on Monday to lead the country out of the European Union on Oct. 31 with or without an exit deal, launching his leadership bid in a campaign video. Prime Minister Theresa May is due to resign on Friday having failed to deliver Brexit on schedule. She leaves behind her a divided nation and parliament with no consensus on the way ahead for the world's fifth largest economy. • The downturn in Canada's manufacturing sector deepened in May as the depressed state of global trade led to a further decline in production, data showed on Monday. The IHS Markit Canada Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI), a measure of manufacturing business conditions, fell to its lowest since December 2015 at a seasonally adjusted 49.1 last month from 49.7 in April. A reading below 50 shows contraction in the sector. • Australian shares ended over 1% lower on Monday, reflecting investors concerns that U.S. President Donald Trump's aggressive trade diplomacy toward both China and Mexico could tip the United States and other major economies into recession. The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) is expected to cut its policy rate on Tuesday for the first time in almost three years by reducing the cash rate to a record low 1.25 %.
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A flight to safe-haven assets pushed U.S. Treasury yields to their lowest since September 2017 on Monday, while gold prices jumped more than 1%. • A gloomy economic outlook is prompting traders to increase bets that the U.S. Federal Reserve will cut interest rates sooner rather than later. Markets appeared to price in higher chances of recession and rate cuts by the Fed and other central banks. • Treasury yields briefly extended their decline following remarks from St. Louis Federal Reserve President James Bullard who said a U.S. rate cut may be "warranted soon" because of global trade tensions and weak U.S. inflation. • Factory activity slowed in the United States, Europe and Asia last month, while the escalating trade war between Washington and Beijing raised fears of a global economic downturn and heaped pressure on policymakers to step up support.
FOREX	The U.S. dollar fell on Monday after St. Louis Federal Reserve President James Bullard said an interest rate cut "may be warranted soon," given the rising economic risk posed by global trade tensions as well as weak U.S. inflation. Bullard said that while the Fed cannot respond to every change in the rapidly evolving trade feud, recent events like the unexpected announcement of new tariffs on Mexican imports have created "an environment of elevated uncertainty... that could feed back to U.S. macroeconomic performance" as the global economy slows. Also on Monday, a national survey showed U.S. manufacturing activity slowed in May to its weakest pace in more than two years as factory managers raised concerns about a trade war between the United States and China. The mounting trade tension has prompted investors to move out of riskier assets like U.S. stocks and into safe-havens like the yen and franc. Against a basket of six major currencies, the dollar was 0.63% lower at 97.131, though it is still up about 1% this year. The yen hit its strongest level against the dollar since Jan. 10, at 107.88, last down about 0.31% from the prior session close. The franc has risen close to levels at which the Swiss National Bank has traditionally intervened to keep the currency weak. Against the euro it rallied more than half a percent to 1.112 francs, its strongest since July 2017, though it was last weaker at 1.116. Against the dollar it was at its strongest since March 27, with the dollar 0.99% weaker at 0.991 francs. The Swiss National Bank, which pursues a monetary policy of negative interest rates and currency

	intervention, has traditionally intervened when the franc has risen to around 1.10 francs per euro, but low inflation and trade tensions suggest the franc has to gain far more from current levels.
GOLD	Gold climbed more than 1.5% on Monday to its highest level in more than three months on concerns that U.S.-Chinese trade tensions and Washington's threat of tariffs on Mexico would hurt the global economy. Spot gold climbed 1.4% to $1,323.62 per ounce by 2:26 p.m. EDT (1826 GMT), after rising as much as 1.6% to its highest price since Feb. 28 at $1,325.72. U.S. gold futures settled up 1.28% at $1,327.90 an ounce. Relations between the United States and China got another jolt when the two nations clashed again at the Shangri-La Dialogue in Singapore on Sunday. Mexican Foreign Minister Marcelo Ebrard said U.S. President Donald Trump's threat of punitive tariffs on Mexico would be devastating and would not stop waves of Central American migrants from crossing the southern U.S. border. Equity markets bore the brunt of the two-pronged tariff threat from the United States, while safe-haven assets such as the Swiss franc and gold have been hefty beneficiaries. Adding to woes, factory activity contracted across Asia and Europe last month on fears of a global economic downturn. Furthermore, U.S. manufacturing growth slowed further in May to its weakest pace in more than two-and-a-half years, a national purchasing managers' survey showed on Monday. Expectations of potentially lower interest rates in the United States, a relatively lower dollar and the volatility in equity markets are moving capital into gold and other precious metals broadly, said Bart Melek, head of commodity strategies at TD Securities in Toronto. Signifying an uptick in investor sentiment toward bullion, speculators increased their net long positions in COMEX gold in the week to May 28, data showed Holdings of SPDR Gold Trust, the world's largest gold-backed exchange-traded fund, rose 0.3% to 743.21 tonnes on Friday. Silver rose 1.5% to $14.79 per ounce. The metal touched a more than two-week high of $14.80 earlier in the session. Palladium fell 0.3% to $1,321.51 per ounce, while platinum jumped over 4 percent to $824.75 per ounce, a two-week high. The metal was on track for its best daily gain since early January 2017.
OIL	Oil fell on Monday as U.S. trade disputes with Mexico and China deepened concerns about weakening global crude demand, while a slump in equities also weighed on crude futures. Brent crude futures settled at $61.28 a barrel, losing 71 cents, or 1.2%. U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude ended 25 cents, or 0.5%, lower at $53.25 a barrel. Mexico said it would reject a U.S. idea to take in Central American asylum seekers if it is raised at talks this week with U.S. President Donald Trump's administration, which is threatening the tariffs over immigration concerns. The possibility of tariffs on Mexico comes on top of a drawn-out trade war between the United States and China that has bruised oil prices. A downturn on Wall Street, which crude prices sometimes follow, worsened losses in oil futures, analysts said. Comments from Saudi Arabia, OPEC's de facto leader, indicating that the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and its allies would continue working towards oil market stability in the second half of the year, helped limit Monday's losses. "We will do what is needed to sustain market stability beyond June. To me, that means drawing down inventories from their currently elevated levels," Energy Minister Khalid al-Falih was quoted as saying by the Saudi-owned Arab News newspaper. Brent futures have dropped almost 20% from their 2018 peak as global supplies tighten following output curbs by OPEC and Russia, as well as a reduction in Iranian and Venezuelan exports due to U.S. sanctions. The recent selloff in crude will likely solidify Saudi Arabia's intention to maintain output reductions, analysts said. Saudi Arabia pumped 9.65 million barrels of oil per day (bpd) in May, a deeper cut than its production target under the global pact to reduce oil supply, a Saudi oil industry source said. The nation's output target under the OPEC-led pact is 10.3 million bpd.
