

Daily Outlook

GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	U.S. stocks ended near flat and the Dow snapped a six-day winning streak on Tuesday, as investors paused following a run of gains and fresh worries emerged over the U.S. trade war with China. President Donald Trump said Tuesday he was holding up a trade deal with China and had no interest in moving ahead, unless Beijing agrees to four or five "major points" which he did not specify. Separately, Trump said he would impose more tariffs on Chinese imports if there was no progress in talks with Chinese President Xi Jinping at the Group of 20 summit later this month. Stocks were mostly higher in early trading amid lingering optimism over Trump's decision late on Friday to hold off import tariffs on Mexico. Investors also may be reluctant to push stocks higher without a fresh catalyst for support, some strategists said. Data showed U.S. producer prices increased solidly for a second straight month in May, in line with expectations of economists polled by Reuters, pointing to a steady pickup in underlying inflation pressures. Industrials and utilities indexes led the way lower Tuesday, with the S&amp;P 500 industrial index falling 0.9%, weighed down by losses in United Technologies Corp and Raytheon Co. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 14.17 points, or 0.05%, to 26,048.51, the S&amp;P 500 lost 1.01 points, or 0.03%, to 2,885.72 and the Nasdaq Composite dropped 0.60 points, or 0.01%, to 7,822.57. Recent optimism over trade tensions and the prospect of an interest rate cut by the Federal Reserve had helped stocks rally in recent sessions. The benchmark S&amp;P 500 is just 2% away from its early May all-time high. The market is betting the Fed will cut interest rates in July and cut two more times this year as Trump's hard bargaining on trade with Beijing and others could push the economy back into recession.
Nikkei	Japan's Nikkei ended higher in choppy trade on Tuesday as cyclical stocks, including exporters, gained on the back of a weaker yen, while defensive firms underperformed. The Nikkei share average rose 0.3% to 21,204.28, after gaining 1.2% on Monday. On Monday, Japanese stocks recovered above the 21,000 level and hit a two-week high, with buyers encouraged by hopes for a U.S. interest rate cut and relief over U.S. President Donald Trump withdrawal of a tariff threat against Mexico. Strategists said investors were awaiting more cues on U.S. monetary policy from the Federal Reserve's June 18-19 policy meeting as well as developments in the U.S.-China trade war ahead of the G20 summit later this month. Trump said on Monday he was ready to impose another round of punitive tariffs on Chinese imports if he cannot make progress in talks with Chinese President Xi Jinping at the G20 summit. Financials were supported by higher U.S. yields, with Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group rising 1.5% and Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group adding 1.2%. Exporters were also up after the dollar advanced 0.2% to 108.65 yen. Tokyo Electron gained 2.4%, TDK Corp rose 1.8% and Yaskawa Electric Corp surged 3.4%. Renesas Electronics soared 4.4% after the company said it established the 'Automotive Electronic Joint Laboratory' with SAIC Volkswagen Automobile Co. Other cyclical stocks were also in demand, with sea transport and steel makers attracting buyers. Mitsui OSK Lines surged 1.5% and Nippon Steel Corp rose 1.1%.
Kospi	South Korea's KOSPI stock index jumped on Tuesday, tracking Chinese shares fuelled by a boost in funding support, while U.S. decision to hold off import tariffs on Mexico brought some relief to investors. The Korean won strengthened, while the benchmark bond yields also rose. China's blue chip index rose 3% after China said on Monday that it would allow local governments to use proceeds from special bonds as capital for major investment projects in a bid to support the slowing economy. The Seoul stock market's main KOSPI closed up 12.32 points, or 0.59%, to 2,111.81. Fears that trade conflict could spread over other countries have eased after the United States stepped back from an immediate imposition of tariffs on Mexico, said Lee Won, an analyst at Bookook Securities. Foreigners were net buyers of 69.1 billion won ($58.52 million) worth of shares on the main board. The won was quoted at 1,180.4 per dollar on the onshore settlement platform, 0.41% higher than its previous close at 1,185.2. The currency won tracked Chinese yuan's gain after China's central bank said on early Tuesday it will sell yuan-denominated bills in Hong Kong in late June, cheering investors that the measure was aimed at stabilising the weakening yuan.

	In offshore trading, the won was quoted at 1,180.5 per U.S. dollar, up 0.2% from the previous day, while in non-deliverable forward trading its one-month contract was quoted at 1,179.1 per dollar.
Hang Seng &amp; Shanghai	Chinese stocks jumped on Tuesday after Beijing eased financing rules to boost local government spending on public works while expectations of lower central bank rates globally and some signs of easing trade tensions also supported sentiment. The Shanghai Composite climbed 2.6% to 2,925.72 points, a level not seen since May 29, while the blue-chip rallied 3%. Giving a boost to domestic shares was news that China would allow local governments to use proceeds from special bonds for major investment projects, including highways, gas and power supply and railways, which would help prop up a slowing economy. Additionally, expectations for interest rate cuts globally have given investors a catalyst to re-enter China's market following disappointing performance in May, said Linus Yip, chief strategist at First Shanghai Securities in Hong Kong. Gains were seen across the board, with CSI300's financial sub-index up 2.4%, technology index up 4.3%, and consumer staples stocks higher by a whopping 5.3%. In Hong Kong, the Hang Seng Index rose 0.8% to 27,789.34 points, while H-shares climbed 0.9%. The smaller Shenzhen index gained 3.7% and the start-up board ChiNext Composite index climbed 3.9%. In global markets, sentiment has improved as investors moved to price in more than two 25 basis point of cuts by the Federal Reserve in 2019, with one almost fully priced in by July. But continued concerns about the U.S.-China trade war, which has showed no material signs of ending, remain a cloud on the outlook. U.S. President Donald Trump said on Monday he was ready to impose another round of punitive tariffs on Chinese imports if he cannot make progress in trade talks with China's President at a Group of 20 summit later this month. China's Foreign Ministry said on Monday it has nothing to announce about a possible meeting between the Chinese and U.S. leaders at this month's G20 summit, though the country is open for more trade talks with Washington.
