GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Both China and the United States should make compromises in trade talks, Chinese Vice Commerce Minister Wang Shouwen said on Monday, ahead of a much anticipated meeting between the Chinese and U.S. presidents at this week's G20 summit in Japan.</li> <li>• Australia's top central banker said on Monday it would be legitimate to question the effectiveness of global monetary policy easings to boost economic growth even as the country itself is on a path to further lower domestic interest rates.</li> <li>• German business morale fell to its lowest level since November 2014 in June, a survey showed on Monday, adding weight to expectations that Europe's largest economy contracted in the second quarter.</li> <li>• U.S. President Donald Trump targeted Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei and other senior Iranian officials with new U.S. sanctions on Monday, looking for a fresh blow to Iran's economy after Tehran's downing of an unmanned American drone.</li> </ul>
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Global equity markets traded mostly flat on Monday as investors awaited U.S.-China trade talks the end of this week at the G20 summit, and the dollar fell to three-month lows on bets the Federal Reserve may cut interest rates more than once this year.</li> <li>• Chinese state media said on Sunday that President Xi Jinping will attend the G20 summit in Osaka, Japan, in the first official confirmation of his attendance at a gathering where he is expected to meet with Trump.</li> </ul>
FOREX	The dollar softened against a basket of currencies on Monday on bets the U.S. Federal Reserve may lower interest rates more than once this year, while tensions between Iran and the United States provided safe-haven support for the yen. Bitcoin extended its torrid weekend run, when it broke above $11,000 for the first time since March 2018. The world's biggest and best-known cryptocurrency has risen nearly 200% this year as Facebook's plan to introduce its Libra digital coin stoked optimism about widening usage of virtual currencies. Investors awaited whether U.S. President Donald Trump and China President Xi Jinping would at least call a truce in their trade war at the G20 summit in Japan later this week. Markets believe that if Washington and Beijing fail to dial back their heated rhetoric on trade, then the Fed will be forced to cut interest rates to prevent a wider economic slowdown resulting from higher U.S. tariffs on imports. Both China and the United States should make compromises in trade talks, Chinese Vice Commerce Minister Wang Shouwen said on Monday. Interest rates futures implied traders priced in a 100% chance the Fed would cut rates at the end of July, while they are betting on a high probability it might lower rates two more times after that, according to CME Group's FedWatch program. Expectations of falling U.S. rates have weakened the greenback. An index that tracks the dollar against a group of six currencies fell 1.57% last week, its biggest weekly loss in four months. At 2:57 p.m. (1857 GMT), the dollar index dipped 0.24% at 95.985. The latest weekly positioning data confirmed the view of a weakening dollar. Hedge funds have turned mildly bearish on the greenback, and have increased bets on weakness in other currencies such as the Australian dollar as their outlook on the global economy has soured. Meanwhile, the yen retreated from its strongest levels against the dollar since January after Trump called off a U.S. military strike against Iran last week, but tensions between the two nations remain high. Trump on Monday imposed new sanctions on Iran in a bid to curb its nuclear program. The yen was steady at 107.31 per dollar after reaching 107.045 on Friday as nervous traders piled into the safe-haven currency. Among digital currencies, bitcoin rose 1.44% to $10,987.81 on the Luxembourg-based Bitstamp exchange.

GOLD	Gold prices rose more than 1 percent on Monday to a near six-year peak as the dollar fell, with safe-haven bullion also boosted by U.S. President Donald Trump's announcement to impose fresh sanctions on Iran. Spot gold was 1.2% higher at $1,415.16 an ounce by 01:57 p.m. EDT (1757 GMT), heading for a fifth straight session of gains. Its session high of $1,416.84 was its highest level since late August 2013. U.S. gold futures settled up 1.3% at $1,418.20 an ounce. Trump imposed new U.S. sanctions on Iran on Monday following Tehran's downing of an unmanned American drone and said the measures would target Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei. Gold prices have risen over 8% this month, and about $75 an ounce over the past week. Holdings of the world's largest gold-backed ETF, SPDR Gold Trust, jumped 4.6% on Friday from the previous day, its biggest daily percentage gain since September 2008. Helping gold's appeal, the dollar dipped, after its biggest weekly drop since mid-February last week on bets the U.S. Federal Reserve would start lowering interest rates as early as next month. The Fed and the European Central Bank last week hinted they were open to easing policy to counter a global economic slowdown, exacerbated by trade tensions. Investors' eyes will be on a summit in Japan this week of leaders from the Group of 20 leading world economies. China's President Xi Jinping and Trump are expected to meet on the sidelines, which could be pivotal in getting negotiations back on track to resolve a trade war. Speculators also boosted their bullish stance in COMEX gold in the week to June 18, the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission said on Friday. Silver edged 0.4% higher to $15.41 per ounce and platinum rose 0.7% to $811.36. Palladium climbed 2.6% to $1,539.51 an ounce.
OIL	Oil prices were mixed on Monday as market concerns about the possibility of a conflict between the United States and Iran eased, while worries about declining crude demand resurfaced. Benchmark Brent crude futures settled at $64.86 a barrel, losing 34 cents, or 0.5%. U.S. crude futures settled at $57.90 a barrel, rising 47 cents, or 0.8%. Last week, Brent climbed 5% and U.S. crude surged 10% after Iran shot down a U.S. drone on Thursday in the Gulf, adding to tensions stoked by attacks on oil tankers in the area in May and June that Washington has blamed on Iran, which denies having any role in the attacks. U.S. President Donald Trump imposed new sanctions on Iran on Monday. Trump on Friday, however, called off a retaliatory attack on the Middle East nation at the last minute after the drone was downed, limiting oil price gains. Hopes are waning for progress in Sino-U.S. trade talks at this week's G20 meeting as investors await a meeting between Presidents Donald Trump and Xi Jinping. Weak manufacturing data released on Monday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas added to worries about slipping demand for crude oil. Supply is expected to remain relatively tight, as the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries and its allies including Russia, an alliance known as OPEC+, appear likely to extend a deal on curbing output when they meet on July 1-2 in Vienna, analysts said. Russian Energy Minister Alexander Novak said on Monday that international cooperation on crude production had helped stabilize oil markets and was more important than ever. He also voiced concerns about demand.
