GLOBAL MARKETS & ECONOMIES | WEEKLY ECONOMIC INDICATORS | CURRENCIES | PRECIOUS METAL | O I L |

GLOBAL ECONOMIES	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • China’s economic growth slowed to 6.2% in the second quarter, its weakest pace in at least 27 years, as demand at home and abroad faltered in the face of mounting U.S. trade pressure. • While more upbeat June factory output and retail sales offered signs of improvement, some analysts cautioned the gains may not be sustainable, and expect Beijing will continue to roll out more support measures in coming months. • U.S. President Donald Trump on Monday seized on slowing economic growth in China as evidence that U.S. tariffs were having “a major effect” and warned that Washington could pile on more pressure as U.S.-China trade talks sputtered along. • Bank of England Governor Mark Carney said on Monday the British central bank had the ability to respond to either slower growth or higher inflation which could follow the country’s departure from the European Union. • German industrial activity is sluggish and recent data point to slower growth in the service sector, the German Economy Ministry said, adding this suggested Europe’s largest economy would experience a weak general economic trend in the second quarter. • Resales of Canadian homes fell 0.2% in June from the previous month, the Canadian Real Estate Association said on Monday.
GLOBAL MARKETS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A gauge of global stocks rose modestly on Monday after economic data from China came in as expected, but equities on Wall Street slipped on weakness in financials in the wake of Citigroup’s earnings report. • China’s second-quarter annual GDP growth rate fell to a 27-year low of 6.2%, as expected, while June reports on industrial production, retail sales and urban investment were above forecasts.
FOREX	The dollar edged higher on Monday in thin summer trading, with its potential upside limited by expectations the Federal Reserve will cut interest rates at next week’s policy meeting. Investors expect the Fed to reduce its key rate by 25 basis points and make another cut in September. U.S. retail sales and industrial production data are due on Tuesday, while the Fed will release its key Beige Book on U.S. economic conditions on Wednesday. Foreign exchange markets were quiet overall on Monday and volatility low ahead of major central bank policy decisions next week. The European Central Bank also holds a meeting next week, with investors expecting a dovish statement. Money markets have priced in an ECB rate cut of 10 basis points in September and another one in March. The ECB’s meeting on July 25 may reinforce those expectations. Forecasts for dovish moves by both the Fed and ECB have kept euro/dollar stuck in a narrow range for weeks. In afternoon trading, an index that tracks the dollar against a basket of six other major currencies was up 0.2% at 96.956. The dollar was flat versus the yen at 107.91 . The euro was slightly down at $1.1255, trading within the recent range of $1.14 to $1.11. Investors are more bearish on the euro, since U.S. Treasury yields look set to remain among the highest in developed markets despite future Fed rate cuts, analysts say. In the cryptocurrency market, bitcoin rallied from two-week lows to $10,941 , up more than 7% on the day. U.S. Treasury Secretary Steve Mnuchin on Monday voiced serious concern that Facebook Inc’s proposed Libra cryptocurrency could be misused for money laundering, adding to the growing regulatory skepticism of the social media company’s digital asset plans. He added that cryptocurrencies will be discussed at the upcoming Group of Seven meeting. Elsewhere, the Australian dollar, the currency most sensitive to Chinese news, rose to a more than one-week high on stronger-than-expected economic data from China. China’s industrial output rebounded in June from a 17-year low in May, while June retail sales surged 9.8%

	from a year earlier. The Aussie was last up 0.2% at US$0.7036 against the U.S. dollar, while China's offshore yuan was up 0.1% at 6.8742 yuan per dollar .
GOLD	Gold edged lower on Monday as global stock markets gained with investors focusing on some upbeat economic readings from mixed Chinese economic data, while a firm dollar further weighed on bullion. Spot gold fell about 0.3% to $1,411.95 per ounce as of 1:43 p.m. EDT (1743 GMT). U.S. gold futures settled 0.1% up at $1,413.50. China's second-quarter annual GDP growth fell to a 27-year low of 6.2%, as expected, but its quarterly growth reading of 1.6% beat forecasts. June reports on industrial production, retail sales and urban investment were above expectations. World shares rose towards an 18-month high following the data, denting appetite for gold. Meanwhile, the dollar was slightly higher against key rivals making gold more expensive for holders of other currencies. Investors await other data this week, such as U.S. retail sales and industrial production, for clues about the health of the world's largest economy. The U.S. Federal Reserve releases its "Beige Book" on Wednesday, which markets will watch for comments on how trade tensions have affected the business outlook. The yellow metal gained 1.1% last week on the back of expectations of an interest rate cut by the U.S. central bank, which also weighed on the dollar. Spot palladium rose about 1.2% to $1,563.30 per ounce. Silver added 0.8% to $15.34, after touching a near two-week high of $15.36 earlier this session. Platinum gained about 1.2% to $837.00 per ounce. Earlier in the session it rose to $846.53, its highest in two months.
OIL	Oil prices sank about 1% on Monday on signs that the impact of a tropical storm on U.S. Gulf Coast production and refining would be short-lived, while Chinese economic data dimmed the crude demand outlook. Brent crude futures LCOc1 settled at $66.48 a barrel, losing 24 cents, while U.S. crude CLc1 settled at $59.58 a barrel, shedding 63 cents, or 1.1%. Both contracts last week made their biggest weekly gains in three weeks on cuts in U.S. oil inventories and diplomatic tensions in the Middle East. One U.S. Gulf Coast refinery was restarting after shutting under threats of Tropical Storm Barry, while other refineries in the path of the storm continued to operate. U.S. offshore oil producers restarted 4% of the production shut by Barry last week, according to a report on Monday by the U.S. Bureau of Safety and Environmental Enforcement (BSEE). Energy companies had slashed offshore U.S. Gulf of Mexico crude output by 73%, or 1.4 million bpd. Chinese data showed industrial output and retail data beat expectations, but overall figures showed the country's slowest quarterly economic growth in decades. China's oil throughput rose to a record 13.07 million barrels per day in June, up 7.7% from a year earlier, following the start-up of two new large refineries, official data showed. Still, economic growth of just 6.2% in the second quarter of 2019 - the weakest in 27 years - highlighted the impact of trade tensions with Washington and raised the possibility that more incentives might be needed to jump-start the economy. Easing tensions between the West and the Middle East also weighed on oil futures. Iranian President Hassan Rouhani said in a televised speech on Sunday that Iran was ready to hold talks with the United States if Washington lifted sanctions and returned to the 2015 nuclear deal it quit last year. British Foreign Secretary Jeremy Hunt said there remained a "small window" of time to save the Iran nuclear deal as Tehran signaled it would ramp up its nuclear program.
