

Daily Outlook

GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	Wall Street's main indexes suffered their sharpest one-day declines in nearly six weeks on Wednesday after employment and manufacturing data suggested that the U.S.-China trade war is taking an increasing toll on the U.S. economy. Adding to trade concerns, the United States won approval on Wednesday to levy import tariffs on $7.5 billion worth of European goods over illegal EU subsidies handed to Airbus, threatening to trigger a tit-for-tat transatlantic trade war. All 11 major S&amp;P sector indexes fell, with energy .SPNY and financials .SPSY each down more than 2%. The ADP National Employment Report showed private payrolls growth in August was not as strong as previously estimated, and said "businesses have turned more cautious in their hiring," with small enterprises becoming "especially hesitant." That added to fears sparked on Tuesday when a report showed U.S. factory activity contracted to its lowest level in more than a decade. The recent weak data has shaken investor faith in the strength of the domestic economy, which had shown relative resilience in the face of slowing global growth. Confidence in the U.S. economy has helped support Wall Street this year. The focus is now on the U.S. Labor Department's more comprehensive jobs report on Friday for further clues on the health of the U.S. economy. The S&amp;P 500 and the Dow slipped below their 100-day moving averages for the first time in about a month. Many investors believe that falling below such moving averages means the indexes are likely to fall further. The S&amp;P 500 is now about 5% below its all-time high hit in July after coming within striking distance of the mark two weeks ago. Over the past 12 months, the S&amp;P 500 is down about 1%. The Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped 1.86% to end at 26,078.62 points, while the S&amp;P 500 lost 1.79% to 2,887.61. The Nasdaq Composite fell 1.56% to 7,785.25. Volume on U.S. exchanges was 8.0 billion shares, compared with the 7.3 billion average for the full session over the last 20 trading days.
Nikkei	Japanese shares fell on Wednesday after manufacturing activity in the United States contracted by the most in more than a decade, offering further evidence that the U.S.-China trade war is slowing global growth. The Nikkei average share price index ended down 0.49% at 21,778.61. A survey from the U.S. Institute for Supply Management (ISM) on Tuesday showed manufacturing activity in the United States tumbled to a more than 10-year low in September as the trade war weighed on exports. There were 150 decliners on the Nikkei index against 69 advancers on Wednesday. Heavy equipment makers and exporters led declines as any weakness in the United States - a major market for Japanese capital goods - and a slightly stronger yen could impact corporate profits. The largest losers in the index by percentage were Nissan Chemical Corp down 5.43%, followed by Rakuten Inc losing 4.76% and Yaskawa Electric Corp down by 4.22%. The largest gainers were Kansai Electric Power Co Inc up 3.22%, followed by KDDI Corp gaining 2.99%, and Casio Computer Co Ltd up by 2.69%. The broader Topix index fell 0.42% to 1,596.29. The volume of shares traded on the Tokyo Stock Exchange's main board was 1.01 billion, compared to the average of 1.18 billion yen in the past 30 days.
Kospi	South Korean shares slumped nearly 2% on Wednesday as investors worried about a slowdown in the United States and heightened political risks in Hong Kong. The won and the benchmark bond yield fell. U.S. manufacturing activity tumbled to a more than 10-year low in September, as lingering trade tensions weighed on exports, further heightening financial market fears of a sharp slowdown in economic growth in the third quarter. Hong Kong police shot a teenage protester on Tuesday, the first to be hit by live ammunition in almost four months of unrest in the Chinese-ruled city, amid violent clashes on the 70th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic. The KOSPI ended down 40.51 points, or 1.95%, at 2,031.91, posting its lowest close since Sept 9. U.S. slowdown worries triggered a large sell-off, while Hong Kong unrest also hit sentiment, said Seo Sang-young, an analyst at Kiwoom Securities. North Korea's latest missile launch had a limited impact on domestic markets, as the missile was not considered as a threat to the United States, he added. North Korea fired a missile off its east coast on Wednesday that South Korea said may have been

	launched from a submarine, a day after it announced the resumption of talks with the United States aimed at ending its nuclear programme. Foreigners were net sellers of 116.3 billion won ($96.44 million) worth of shares on the main board. The won was quoted at 1,206.0 per dollar on the onshore settlement platform, 0.58% lower than its previous close at 1,199.0. In offshore trading, the won was quoted at 1,206.6 per U.S. dollar, down 0.3% from the previous day, while in non-deliverable forward trading its one-month contract was quoted at 1,205.6 per dollar.
Hang Seng &amp; Shanghai	➤ Shares in Hong Kong ended lower on Wednesday, having touched a four-week trough earlier in the session, as poor U.S. data stoked fears of a slowdown in the world's largest economy, while continued local unrest hurt investor sentiment. The Hang Seng index closed 0.2% lower at 26,042.69 points, paring some losses after hitting its lowest level since Sept. 4 in early trade. The Hang Seng China Enterprises index also fell 0.2%. Energy shares dipped 0.5%, the IT sector lost 0.7%, the financial sector fell 0.3% and the property sector rose 0.9%. Fears of a U.S. economic slowdown grew after the Institute for Supply Management's (ISM) index of factory activity, one of the most closely watched data on U.S. manufacturing, dropped 1.3 points to 47.8, the lowest level since June 2009. The S&amp;P 500 index touched four-week lows overnight. In Asia, MSCI's Asia ex-Japan stock index fell by 0.8%, while Japan's Nikkei index closed down 0.5%. China's financial markets are closed for the week for the National Day holiday. "With A-shares closed, the U.S. stock market's movement is the main point of reference for the Hang Seng Index," analysts at CHIEF Group wrote in a note on Wednesday, adding that U.S. economic data due this week, such as private sector jobs figures, may also sway the Hong Kong market. In Hong Kong, police shot the first protester with live ammunition in almost four months of unrest on Tuesday, in some of the most widespread violence since the disruptions erupted in early June. Hong Kong will report August retail sales shortly after the stock market closes. Citi's analysts said in a note on Wednesday the numbers may "decline very sharply" amid the protracted protests, global trade tensions and yuan depreciation, which hurt mainland Chinese tourists' spending power. About 1.2 billion Hang Seng index shares were traded. The volume traded in the previous trading session was 1.34 billion. ➤ Shanghai financial markets closed for the week-long National Day holiday.
