

Daily Outlook

GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	Wall Street’s major indexes inched higher on Tuesday, extending their record-setting rally, as strong housing and manufacturing data bolstered investors’ confidence in the U.S. economy. The benchmark S&amp;P 500 hit a record high for a fourth straight session, building on its 27% gain this year, which has been driven by progress toward a U.S.-China trade agreement, a dovish Federal Reserve and upbeat economic indicators. U.S. housing starts increased more than expected in November, and building permits rose that month to the highest level since May 2007. Data from the Federal Reserve also showed manufacturing output picked up more than expected in November, as the end of a strike at General Motors Co boosted automobile production. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 31.27 points, or 0.11%, to 28,267.16, the S&amp;P 500 gained 1.07 points, or 0.03%, to 3,192.52 and the Nasdaq Composite added 9.13 points, or 0.1%, to 8,823.36. The S&amp;P 500 financial index, which tends to be economically sensitive, rose 0.5% to a record high on the upbeat data. Among the S&amp;P 500’s major sectors, financials added the most gains to the benchmark index. Shares of Home Depot Inc rose 1.0% on the housing data and were among the biggest boosts to the Dow. Shares of rival Lowe’s Cos Inc dipped 0.6%, however, after having risen earlier in the session. Netflix Inc shares rose 3.7%, among the biggest percentage gains on the S&amp;P 500, after the streaming service provider said late Monday that its overseas growth, particularly its Asia-Pacific business, was accelerating. Apple Inc shares touched a record high and ended with marginal gains, up 0.2%. After the bell, FedEx Corp shares fell about 6% after the package-delivery company reported quarterly results.
Nikkei	Japanese stocks rose to their highest level in more than a year on Tuesday, tracking Wall Street’s run to a record closing high on renewed optimism over the U.S.-China interim trade deal. The Nikkei index settled 0.47% higher at 24,066.12, with the healthcare and industrials sectors leading the gains. Earlier in the session, the benchmark index reached its highest level since Oct. 4, 2018. It is up 19.67% so far this year. U.S. National Economic Council Director Larry Kudlow on Monday said the “phase one” deal was “absolutely completed” and reiterated comments made by U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer that U.S. exports to China would double in exchange for a reduction in U.S. tariffs. Chinese officials have been more cautious, emphasizing that the trade dispute has not been completely settled. Investors are betting that the deal, which is expected to be signed in the first week of January, will finally de-escalate the tariff spat that had dragged on for more than a year, making it the biggest risk to the global economic outlook. The de-escalation of the dispute is also a positive for earnings of Japanese exporters. The top percentage gainers in the index were chemicals maker Tosoh Corp, up 5.21%, followed by healthcare firm M3 Inc, up by 4.7%, and oil producer Inpex Corp, which gained 3.97%. The biggest percentage losers were ad agency Dentsu Inc, down 6.28%, followed by ship builder Mitsui E&amp;S Holdings Co Ltd, down 3%, and video game maker Bandai Namco Holdings Inc, which shed 2.39%.
Kospi	South Korean shares closed over 1% higher on Tuesday as chipmakers soared after chip prices rebounded, and as foreigners bought more local stocks on better risk appetite. The won strengthened, while the benchmark bond yield fell. Shares of Samsung Electronics and SK Hynix ended up 3.7% and 4.7%, respectively. The KOSPI ended up 27.53 points, or 1.27%, at 2,195.68, posting its highest close since May 3. The most liquid 3-year Korean treasury bond yield fell by 0.6 basis points to 1.362% in late afternoon trade, while the benchmark 10-year yield fell by 1.2 basis points to 1.603%.
Hang Seng &amp; Shanghai	➤ Hong Kong stocks hit a five-week closing high on Tuesday, buoyed by optimism over the Sino-U.S. interim trade deal and Wall Street’s rally to record highs. Hong Kong’s benchmark Hang Seng Index closed up 1.2% at 27,843.71 points. The China Enterprises Index gained 1.7% to 10,964.99 points. The preliminary deal between Washington and Beijing will double U.S. exports to China, White House adviser Larry Kudlow told Fox News on Monday. The United States will also reduce some tariffs on Chinese goods under the agreement. It is not yet signed, and the Chinese side have been more circumspect in their praise, but U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer said over the weekend it is “totally done”. Sentiment got a further boost on Monday after data showed growth in China’s industrial and retail sectors beat expectations in November. The sub-index of the Hang Seng tracking energy shares ended 1.9% firmer, while the IT sector closed 2.34% higher, the financial sector ended 1.28% higher and the property sector closed 0.3% weaker. The top gainer in the Hang Seng was CSPC Pharmaceutical Group Ltd, which closed 4.2% firmer, while the biggest loser was China Resources Land Ltd, which ended 2.49% lower. The top gainers among H-shares were CITIC Securities Co Ltd up 5.47%, followed by Haitong Securities Co Ltd, gaining 5.12% and CRRC Corp Ltd, closing 5.04% higher.

➤ China stocks extended gains into a third session on Tuesday, with the blue-chip index posting an eight-month closing high, boosted by an interim China-U.S. trade deal which helped temper a key external risk to its financial markets.

The blue-chip CSI300 index rose 1.4%, to 4,041.80, the highest close since April 19, while the Shanghai Composite Index rallied 1.3% to 3,022.42.

The “phase one” trade deal between Washington and Beijing has been “absolutely completed,” a top White House adviser said on Monday, adding that U.S. exports to China would double under the agreement. The deal announced on Friday will reduce some U.S. tariffs on Chinese goods in exchange for increased Chinese purchases of U.S. agricultural, manufactured and energy products by some $200 billion over the next two years.

Sentiment was also aided by a host of recent data pointing to resilience in the world’s second-largest economy. In a fresh sign that Beijing will continue to support the economy with fiscal stimulus, the state planner said on Tuesday it approved eight fixed-asset investment projects in November worth a combined 7.1 billion yuan.
