GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	The S&P 500 ended a five-day winning streak on Wednesday as investors' optimism about global economic growth was countered by a steep drop in FedEx Corp shares, but the benchmark index managed to hover near all-time highs. FedEx shares tumbled 10.0% after the U.S. parcel delivery company cut its fiscal 2020 profit forecast on heavy expenses, slowing global trade and fallout from its breakup with Amazon.com Inc. The decline in FedEx shares weighed on the blue-chip Dow industrials. Shares of rival package delivery company United Parcel Service Inc fell 1.9%. The FedEx and UPS losses sent the Dow Jones Transport Average down 0.9%. But the Nasdaq notched a record closing high for a fifth straight session. Even with Wednesday's nominal losses on the S&P 500, analysts said market sentiment remained largely upbeat following last week's announcement of an initial U.S.-China trade agreement. Earlier in the session, the S&P 500 hit its fifth consecutive record high. The market largely shrugged off the likely impeachment of U.S. President Donald Trump as the House of Representatives geared up for a historic vote later in the day on two charges accusing Trump of abusing his power and obstructing Congress. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 27.88 points, or 0.1%, to 28,239.28, the S&P 500 lost 1.38 points, or 0.04%, to 3,191.14, and the Nasdaq Composite added 4.38 points, or 0.05%, to 8,827.74. The small-cap Russell 2000 hit its highest level in 14 months and ended 0.25% higher. Facebook Inc shares rose 2.1%, providing the biggest boost to the S&P 500, as Deutsche Bank raised its price target on the stock.
Nikkei	Japanese shares ended lower on Wednesday, after data showed that the trade-reliant economy's exports shrunk for the 12th straight month amid the Sino-U.S. tariff war, raising the risk of a fourth-quarter contraction, and as investors booked profits. The Nikkei index ended down 0.55% at 23,934.43, with the industrial and healthcare sectors leading the declines. The index had slipped 0.61% earlier in the session, its biggest intraday percentage loss since Dec. 4. The Nikkei touched its highest since Oct. 4, 2018 on Tuesday. Traders are trying to look beyond the disappointing export data as a de-escalation in the U.S.-China trade dispute and an improving U.S. economy fuelled expectations that Japan's exports will recover next year. Sentiment was supported by following U.S. data that showed a rebound in manufacturing and a bigger-than-expected increase in U.S. housing starts, lifting Wall Street to a record high on Tuesday. The largest percentage losers in the index were drugmaker Daiichi Sankyo Co Ltd down 5.58%, followed by industrial equipment maker IHI Corp losing 3.53%, and shipping company Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha Ltd down by 3.43%. The largest percentage gainers in the index were industrial conglomerate Hitachi Ltd up 3.14%, followed by Nippon Electric Glass Co Ltd gaining 2.83%, and Taiheiyo Cement Corp up by 2.58%. After the closing bell, Hitachi said it will sell a stake in its listed unit Hitachi Chemical Co to Showa Denko for 494 billion yen ($4.55 billion). Isuzu Motors Ltd's shares ended up 1.54% after a media report that it will cooperate with Sweden's Volvo AB on next-generation trucks. The automakers officially announced the tie-up after the market closed.
Kospi	South Korean shares ended marginally lower on Wednesday as investors booked profits from the recent rally. The KOSPI ended down 0.92 points, or 0.04%, to 2,194.76. Nomura said in a report published on Tuesday there would be another super-cycle in the semiconductor industry between 2020 and 2021. It raised target prices for both Samsung Electronics and SK Hynix, while maintaining its buy ratings for the country's top 2 chipmakers. Shares of Samsung Electronics closed down 0.71% after rising as much as 0.9%. The stock has surged 45.5% so far this year, compared with a 7.4% rise in the broader market. In money and debt markets, March futures on three-year treasury bonds rose 0.03 points to 110.50, while the 3-month Certificate of Deposit rate was quoted at 1.53% in late afternoon trade. The most liquid 3-year Korean treasury bond yield fell by 0.9 basis point to 1.355% in late afternoon trade, while the benchmark 10-year yield fell by 0.4 basis point to 1.602%.
Hang Seng & Shanghai	➤ Stocks in Hong Kong hit their highest level since late July on Wednesday amid expectation of a 'phase one' trade deal between Beijing and Washington, but pared gains as investors awaited further details. At the close of trade, the Hang Seng index was up 0.2% to 27,884.21, off its earlier peak - the highest level since late July. The Hang Seng China Enterprises index was up 0.5%. The sub-index of the Hang Seng tracking energy shares rose 1.6%, the IT sector was up 0.5%, the financial sector was flat, and the property sector fell 0.2%. The top gainer on the Hang Seng was CNOOC Ltd, which gained 3.5%, while

the biggest loser was WH Group Ltd , which fell 3.8%.
 Top White House adviser Larry Kudlow said on Monday that a so-called “phase-one” trade deal between the United States and China had been “absolutely completed”, and that U.S. exports to China would double under the agreement. However, Chinese officials earlier said the dispute had not been completely settled.
 Unrest in Hong Kong has led to as much as $5 billion of capital outflows from investment funds since April, the Bank of England said. The Hong Kong Monetary Authority, the city’s central bank, argued this did not necessarily mean the money had left the city’s banking system.

➤ China stocks China shares ended a three-session rally on Tuesday as investors sought concrete details on the initial trade deal between Beijing and Washington. The Shanghai Composite index closed 0.2% lower at 3,017.04, off the three-month high hit on Tuesday. The blue-chip CSI300 index also fell 0.2%, moving away from the highest level since April hit in the previous session. CSI300’s financial sector sub-index was flat, the consumer staples sector ticked down 0.3%, while the real estate index fell 0.5%. The smaller Shenzhen index was flat, while the start-up board ChiNext Composite index slid 0.5%.
 The so-called “phase-one” trade deal between the United States and China has been “absolutely completed,” a top White House adviser said on Monday, adding that U.S. exports to China will double under the agreement. Larry Kudlow’s remarks came after Chinese officials emphasized that the trade dispute has not been completely settled. The Trump administration is finalising a set of narrow rules to limit exports of sophisticated technology to adversaries such as China, according to a document seen by Reuters.
 China’s central bank on Wednesday lowered the interest rate on 14-day reverse repurchase agreements by five basis points, having unexpectedly trimmed the seven-day benchmark last month for the first time in more than four years. China will take a targeted approach to boosting investment and will not resort to massive stimulus in its infrastructure push, the state planner said on Tuesday, as Beijing ramps up support to stabilise its slowing economy.
