GLOBAL STOCK INDEX

DJIA	The Nasdaq snapped an 11-day streak of gains on Friday after some late-session weakness, but the S&P 500 and the Dow scratched out record closing highs with slight gains as a year-end rally chugged along. With only two trading days left for the year, the benchmark S&P 500 has climbed more than 29% so far in 2019, its biggest annual percentage gain since 2013. Trading volume has been thin during the holiday-shortened week and could continue to be sparse through the New Year's holiday on Wednesday. Data on Friday showed profits at China's industrial firms grew at the fastest pace in eight months in November, but broad weakness in the country's domestic demand remains a risk for company earnings next year. Investor expectations that the United States and China will soon sign a Phase 1 trade deal has added momentum to the stock market heading into 2020. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 23.87 points, or 0.08%, to 28,645.26, the S&P 500 gained 0.11 points to 3,240.02 and the Nasdaq Composite dropped 15.77 points, or 0.17%, to 9,006.62. Among S&P 500 sectors, consumer staples .SPLRCS, real estate .SPLRCR and utilities .SPLRCU were the top performers. Energy .SPNY and materials .SPLRCM lagged among the sectors. Aside from optimism over trade relations, the stock market has been lifted by interest rate cuts by the Federal Reserve and better-than-feared economic data and corporate profits. About 5.2 billion shares changed hands in U.S. exchanges, compared with the 6.8 billion daily average over the last 20 sessions. Declining issues outnumbered advancing ones on the NYSE by a 1.02-to-1 ratio; on Nasdaq, a 1.52-to-1 ratio favored decliners. The S&P 500 posted 59 new 52-week highs and no new lows; the Nasdaq Composite recorded 96 new highs and 23 new lows.
Nikkei	Japan's Nikkei dipped but the broader market firmed on Friday, and is on course to wrap up the quarter with the biggest gains since 2017 on the back of easing U.S.-China trade tensions. The Nikkei share average shed 0.36% to 23,837.72, though about a half of the loss came from Fast Retailing, which has a disproportionately big weighting of about 10% in the index. The Nikkei is still not far from a 14-month top of 24,901 touched in early December, and with only one trading day left for the year, it could log its best quarter in two years. The broader Topix gained 0.11% to 1,733.18, with advancers outnumbering decliners by 71 to 29, an unusually high ratio compared to small gains in the Topix. The market is supported by hopes that the United States and China will sign off on an interim trade deal early next year, with cyclical value shares attracting buying. Japan's jobless rate unexpectedly fell to match a 27-year low hit earlier this year and Tokyo-area consumer price inflation unexpectedly accelerated 0.2 percentage point to 0.8%. On the other, industrial output slipped to the lowest since early 2013 though the fall was smaller than expected and the data did nothing to change the view that the manufacturing sector is bottoming out thanks to a detente in the U.S.-China trade war. With many foreign investors absent due to year-end holidays, retail Japanese traders were considered to be the main players. Shippers were the best performing sector among the Tokyo Stock Exchange's 33 industry subindexes with a gain of 1.4%. Banks gained 0.9%, with both MUFG and Mizuho Financial up 0.7%. The index of Mothers start-up market rose 0.7% while the Jasdaq market, another bourse for start-up firms, also ticked up 0.6%. J. Front Retailing jumped 5.2% to a one-year high as investors welcomed the announcement from the department store operator that it will seek to wholly own Parco, an operator of a commercial complex in which it already has a dominant stake. Parco shares jumped 21.8% to the day's limit. Many of the top decliners were those that went ex-dividend on Friday. Japan Tobacco, which boasts the highest dividend yield among the Topix Core 30, lost 3.5% while Canon shed 2.5%. Casual restaurant chain operator Skylark Holdings dropped 3.8% while cosmetics maker Pola Orbis Holdings lost 2.5%.
Kospi	South Korean shares followed Wall Street to end higher on Friday, as losses from stocks trading ex-dividend was outweighed by a report of robust US online holiday sales and optimism over a US-China trade deal. The Korean won was little changed, while the benchmark bond yield rose.

In a yearly event, 46.0 points - equivalent to 2.09 per cent - were shaved off the benchmark index by the ex-dividend price adjustment, according to the Korea Exchange.

The Seoul stock market's main Kospi ended up 6.28 points, or 0.29 per cent, at 2,204.21. Earlier in the session, the index rose as much as 0.8 per cent to touch its highest since May 2.

Sentiment was boosted after Beijing said on Thursday it was in close contact with Washington about an initial trade agreement, shortly after US President Donald Trump talked up a signing ceremony for the recently struck Phase 1 trade deal.

In addition to trade hopes, the report on strong holiday sales from the US also supported risk appetite, said Noh Dong-kil, an analyst at NH Investment & Securities.

US shoppers spent more online during this year's holiday shopping season, a report by Mastercard Inc showed on Wednesday, with e-commerce sales hitting a record high.

Overnight, the Nasdaq crossed the 9,000-point mark for the first time as all three major Wall Street indices posted record closing highs boosted by optimism over US-China trade relations and gains in shares of Amazon.com.

Hang Seng & Shanghai

➤ Hong Kong stocks closed at a five-month peak on Friday as investors cheered a rebound in China's industrial profits for November, while hopes that Beijing and Washington will soon sign a trade deal aided sentiment.

The benchmark Hang Seng index ended up 1.3% at 28,225.42, the highest closing level since July 26, while the China Enterprises Index gained 1.4% to 11,194.55.

For the week, HSI gained 1.3%, while HSCE added 1.5%. Both indexes recorded a fourth straight weekly gain.

Profits at industrial firms in November grew at the fastest pace in eight months, breaking a three-month declining streak, as production and sales quickened, but broad weakness in domestic demand remains a risk for earnings next year.

China said it was in close contact with the United States on signing a Phase 1 trade deal, and that both sides were still going through necessary procedures before the signing.

Another factor driving the markets was a Reuters report that said China had called on its biggest state firms to take a more active role in Hong Kong, including stepping up investment and asserting more control of companies in the financial hub.

➤ China stocks gave up early gains to close lower on Friday as losses in tech firms offset optimism due to the rebound in November industrial profits, though major indexes posted a fourth straight weekly gain.

The blue-chip CSI300 index closed 0.1% lower at 4,022.03, while the Shanghai Composite Index shed 0.1% to 3,005.04. Both indexes rose as much as 1% during the session.

For the week, CSI300 rose 0.1%, while SSEC was slightly up.

Profits at industrial firms in November grew at the fastest pace in eight months, breaking a three-month declining streak, as production and sales quickened, but broad weakness in domestic demand remains a risk for earnings next year.

For the day, the tech-heavy start-up board ChiNextP slid 1.5% and snapped a three-week rising streak. Investors needed to exercise caution as the benchmark Shanghai index approached the 3,000-point level, a key resistance since early-May, as the short-term economic recovery actually was not that good, China Fortune Securities' analyst Yan Kaiwen said.

Given the robust rally in the A-share market this year, institutional investors tended to pocket gains as the year ended rather than increase exposure, Yan added.

Last weekend, a state fund announced plans to cut its stakes in some tech companies, triggering a sharp correction in the sector.

On the trade front, China said it was in close contact with the United States on signing a "Phase 1" trade deal and that both sides were still going through necessary procedures before the signing.
